Well, here's your chance to become a salesman, win a pocket radio and have a lot of fun all at the same time.

The Mite-Size Radio sells in stores for $5. It operates by self powered diode rectifier. It does not use batteries, tubes, transistors or electricity.

You can use this new radio at work, play, sporting events, or while relaxing at home. And only you and a friend will be able to hear it, by means of two hearing-aid type speakers.

THE ENTIRE SET fits into the hand and can be carried about easily. The only requirement is that you clamp the aerial to a "ground," any metal such as a lamp shade, dial phone or radiator. Reception is excellent.

You can earn a "Mite-Size Radio" free, with the sale of two, one-year subscriptions to either the Walnut Creek Sun, Lafayette Sun, Pleasant Hill Sun or Orinda Sun. Or you may qualify by selling a single two-year subscription.

Subscription price is $3.75, cash or check for a full year. The subscriber will receive his edition each week for 52 weeks.

HOWEVER, the subscriptions must be NEW, placed by persons who have not taken The Sun for at least three months. It cannot be a renewal.

If desired, you can sell just one, new one-year subscription and add $1.75 in cash or check for a radio.

Successful "salesmen" may bring their subscriptions and the money or checks (paid in advance) to the Walnut Creek office, 1320 Locust Street; or the Lafayette office, 1000 Oak Hill Road; or to the Pixie Shop in the Orinda Village.

Orinda School Trustees Approve Record Budget

A budget of $1,200,747 for the coming year, highest in the district's history, was approved by Orinda Union School District trustees at a meeting Monday in Pine Grove School.

Only four school patrons attended the session, and none of them protested items in the whopping budget.

JOSEPH SHEAFF, superintendent, pointed out that despite the increase in the budget because of a larger school system, he estimates a drop of about 5 cents per $100 valuation in the tax rate because of a difference in the repayment rate for state loans.

Trustee's approve Sheaff's action in asking the district attorney to sue the Associated Investment Co., Oakland, for damages resulting from falling pine trees on the Pine Grove School property.

Just how many trees on school district property were felled won't be known, Sheaff said, until he receives reports from a surveyor and an appraiser.

THE TREES were cut down by contractors clearing the adjoining property of the Associated Investment Co.

School board members approved calling for bids on three classrooms, a library, kindergarten room, and a stage to the auditorium at Glorietta as soon as new plans are approved by the State Allocations Board.

Bids on earlier plans were rejected as too high.

APPROVED WERE the proposed purchases of blackout curtains for rooms in Glorietta, Orinda, Sleepy Hollow, and Del Rey schools, and a stage curtain for Sleepy Hollow School.

The blackout curtains, Sheaf explained, are used in audio-visual instruction.

Directors also approved the use of the home arts room in the Pine Grove School by members of the high school adult education group.

The board authorized Sheaff's attendance at the school superintendent's conference in San Diego in October.

Contracts were signed for four new teachers: Mrs. Susanne Davis, Eugene Whitt, Mrs. Cleora Gehres, and Mrs. Margie DiLinardo.

Traffic Snarl at Village Should End by Wednesday

Work on resurfacing Camino Sobrante above the Orinda Highway at the Orinda Village triangle will be completed Tuesday or Wednesday, ending a traffic foulup during which cars have detoured along the north lane, according to Broydon Riha, resident engineer for the county public works department.

Barricades were set up about a week ago, but Riha denied a report that had reached The Sun that there has been any unnecessary delay in completing the project.

"A subgrade of two courses of rock has been laid in that time," Riha said, "and work has been proceeding as rapidly as possible.

"We've had to do some of the job a second time because people remove the barricades and drive right through work that has been already completed.

"Usually work is done during the day, ending at about 4 p.m., and often people using the road after that time aren't observant enough to see what's been accomplished."

Rawlings Simon, owner of Simon's Village Hardware, whose store faces the project, said he thought the job was being completed as rapidly as possible.

New Officers Are Chosen By Orinda Nursery School

The Orinda Nursery School has announced the names of its new officers and board members. Classes at the co-operative school for young children will begin September 3, and the first general meeting will be held September 11 in the evening. On the agenda for the first meeting will be the introduction of new officers and Mrs. William Patterson, director, and the presentation of orientation skits.

Officers for the coming year include Mrs. Howard Hoyt, president; Mrs. Glenn Heltne, vice-president; Mrs. Paul Weber, secretary; Mrs. Thomas Curtis and Mrs. Fred Cummnigs, treasurers; Mrs. Webster Sawyer, maintenance; Mrs. Roger Olson, purchasing; Mrs. Robert Angell, publicity; Mrs. Philip Jelley, visitors; Mrs. Dana Leavitt, hostesses; Mrs. Franklin Moulthrop, orientation; Mrs. Jack Evans and Mrs. Emerson Wiser, participation; Mrs. Carl Strang and Mrs. Stanley Johnson, membership; Mrs. Fodestrom, education; Mrs. Calvin Gold, dance; Mrs. Spencer Kendall, health; Mrs. Roger Olson, registration, and Mrs. Gerald Breuner, telephone.

Celebration To Mark Completion Of New Highway

A celebration of the end of detours and traffic slowups will be held by the Orinda Chamber of Commerce in mid-September when the Orinda Village bypass is completed.

Chamber directors, meeting Tuesday in Casa Orinda, voted in favor of such a celebration, and instructed Ned deLaveaga, chairman of a committee in charge of arrangements, to plan a community-wide dinner.

HE REPORTED that the county is planning a ribbon-cutting ceremony, and suggested a celebration similar to the one held on completion of the Orinda interchange.

No definite date has yet been set for opening of the bypass, to be officially known as Camino Pablo.

Clarence Betz, chamber secretary, reported on the problem of merchandise displayed on sidewalks. George Dodge had asked at a previous meeting whether any ordinance would prevent such sidewalk-blocking.

BETZ READ an ordinance cited by Assistant District Attorney Matt Walker, but pointed out that the ordinance did not seem to apply.

John Ogden, chamber president, suggested there might be other applicable ordinances, and asked Betz to continue investigations.

Betz reported that he has received many calls from persons in the El Toyonal area asking what provision has been made for the safe crossing by pedestrians, including children, of the El Toyonal intersection of the new bypass, and that he has requested information from the County Public Works Department.

IN ADDITION, Betz said he has sent a letter to the county asking for improvements in the road from the bridge to Minor Road, reported to be in bad condition.

Irving (Bud) Leiber, chamber vice president, introduced Martin Rocky of the Alfred Pettler Advertising Agency, who discussed a proposed survey of Orinda residents to find out what new business firms they think the community needs.

Rocky discussed survey techniques. Cost of a complete mailing and evaluation of replies, he said, would be $924; cost of a mailing and evaluation to include half the homes in the area would be $562.

ERNEST POLL RECALLED that about six years ago a similar survey was undertaken by the chamber and the Orinda Association with volunteer labor, and that further study was then suggested.

Questioning the exact purpose of a survey, Ramsey Underwood and Dodge suggested that questions be first set up and that then the chamber could decide whether it would be worth $500 to $900 to get the answers.

Ogden pointed out that information concerning what kind of stores Orindans need would be valuable to persons planning store building construction.

DODGE QUESTIONED whether getting such information is a function of the Chamber of Commerce. Ogden said the results of a survey would benefit the whole community.

The question of a survey was turned back to the committee for further study.

Betz reported that the chamber has ordered 100 more city maps that will be available in about two weeks.

Baseball Tickets Offered As Prize

Some lucky person is going to get two free box seats to the August 23 Giants-Cincinnati baseball game in Seals stadium just by writing his name.

Al Baer, manager of the Village Shoe Shop, has offered the prize. No purchase is necessary, he said—contestants may simply write their name and addresses on slips available at the shop, and drop them in a box. A drawing will be held at noon Saturday, August 16.

Village Bypass Traffic Signals Not Provided

Painted crosswalks will be the only protection for pedestrians attempting to cross the new Orinda Village bypass at the El Toyonal, Santa Maria and Camino Sobrante intersections.

Conduits to which traffic signals can be connected have been installed at those points, but there are at present no plans for erection of such signals, Mark Kermit, county traffic engineer, told The Sun.

"TRAFFIC SIGNALS can be installed if it turns out that they are necessary," Kermit said, "but right now we are not contemplating such installations, and no funds have been budgeted for that purpose."

The bypass highway will have four lanes of "moving traffic," and left turn lanes at each intersection, Kermit pointed out.

"The left turn lanes will provide islands where pedestrians can wait and take refuge from traffic," Kermit said.

"We won't know for some time if traffic signals will be warranted," he added. "If they are, they normally wouldn't be installed for a year or more. Of course, if there were an emergency, action might be taken sooner."

ESPECIAL CONCERN has been expressed concerning the safety of children and other pedestrians living in the El Toyonal area, who will have to cross the bypass to go to and from Orinda Village.

Many of them have telephoned the chamber of commerce to ask what provisions have been made for safety of pedestrians in making the crossing.

Kermit said the intersections will be lighted with "color-improved" 20,000-lumen mercury vapor lights.

Former Roadway May Give Orinda New Parking Lot

A portion of Orinda Way not being used because of the new bypass may provide additional parking for Orinda.

John Ogden, chamber of commerce president and Orinda Parking Authority commissioner, said the county will be asked to abandon Orinda Way from Santa Maria Way to the present barrier.

He pointed out that if the county agrees to abandon the area, already paved, ownership will revert to the owners of adjacent property, Shell Oil Company and Associated Investment Company, Oakland.

The oil company, which plans a service station on its property, has already agreed to turn its portion of the roadway over to the authority for parking, Ogden said, and in addition will provide for parking at the rear of the station.

But Ogden reported that Edward Martin, partner in the investment firm which owns the Pine Grove area on the other side of the former roadway, has said that he wants to be sure ingress and egress to that site will be provided before making any commitment to the authority.

Two Hurt After Four Car Crash

Two persons were injured and treated at Kaiser Hospital in Walnut Creek following a four car crash near Orinda Monday, according to reports of the California Highway Patrol.

Taken to the hospital by Walnut Creek ambulance were Fred McKay of Concord and Bertan Nash of Oakland.

The accident occurred when McKay, going east on Mt. Diablo Boulevard crossed the double line and hit the westbound car of Nash, Officer William Hamilton of the Highway Patrol reported.

Two other drivers were unable to stop to avoid the accident, the patrolman said.

They were Ferena Szatho and Stanley Swartz, both of Oakland.

McKay was cited for speeding and crossing the double line, Hamilton commented.

Honors Are Given

Fifty-six incoming freshmen at Reed College in Portland, Ore., have been awarded honors at entrance in recognition of outstanding scholastic merit.

Honors at entrance recipients include Joan Haefeie, 32 Hillcrest Drive, Orinda. Miss Haefeie is a graduate of Acalanes High School in Lafayette.

Truck Driver's Courage Saves Orinda Homes

"Riding that truck down took a lot of courage. He was lucky to come out alive."

That's what Assistant Fire Chief Al Winsor says about Bert McCowin of Martinez, who stayed with his truck, loaded with a 25-ton bulldozer, when its brakes failed Monday afternoon and it careened down Crest View Court.

AFTER A WILD two-block ride down the street, which is on a ridge overlooking Lost Valley and Valley View Drive, McCowin drove the vehicle into a mound of earth—stopping it 20 feet short of a 400-foot drop over the hillside.

"He had the door open, and could have jumped at any time," Winsor said. "I think most drivers would have jumped."

But McCowin stayed with the truck and was successful in keeping it from crashing into any of the homes along the street.

The truck struck a power pole, snapping it off and breaking a 12,000-volt circuit. Several hundred homes were without electricity for about half an hour.

"McCOWIN WAS lucky the power line didn't hit him," Winsor pointed out. "He might have been electrocuted."

The fire department was called by someone who saw the speeding truck and reported that "a truck just went over the bank."

"We assumed right away that there might be a fire and made the run," Winsor said. "We found he'd barely missed an unoccupied house at the bottom of the hill and stopped just 20 feet from the brink.

"I was ready to jump before the truck got all the way to the edge," McCowin told Winsor.

"He was very, very lucky," Winsor repeated.

Public Hearing on Budget August 19

Public hearing on the county's proposed $35,774,232 budget for 1958-59 will be August 19 at 2 p.m. in the supervisorial chambers, Hall of Records, Martinez.

The budget, if approved without change, will require nearly a 12 per cent increase for every $100 of assessed valuation, according to findings of the supervisors.

IN PRELIMINARY budget discussions the supervisors cut approximately $5 million from county departmental requests.

The original total budget requests totaled over $40 million and would have required a 73 cent increase for every $100 in assessed valuation.

The tax rate indicated by the supervisors will be $2.289 per $100 of assessed valuation for the entire county except in Richmond.

RICHMOND operates its own library system and there the projected tax rate is $2.189.

The present county tax rate is $2.17 and in Richmond $2.07 per $100.

In other action Tuesday, the board of supervisors established a yield right of way zone for vehicles entering School Street from First Street and Avalon Avenue in Lafayette.

New Orinda Library May Be Completed in October

Orinda's new library may open in October, said a progress report issued by Perc S. Brown, president of the Orinda Library Board, with $9,000 yet to be raised to complete the purchase of furniture and equipment.

The report follows:

"As of July 31 your library (building only) is approximately 50 per cent completed. The work is about five weeks behind schedule. Ground improvements, paving, parking facilities, outdoor lighting, etc., of course, have not yet been started. As of now, barring unforeseen delays, October opening appears possible.

"WE NOW KNOW the financial aspect to be approximately, within close limits, as follows: The project should cost—including adequate furniture and equipment — $110,600, plus or minus $1,000.

"This figure does not include any provision for landscaping.

"Total funds received and in sight, including unpaid pledges, approximate $102,000. The gap between the two figures represents the $9,000 new money needed to complete purchase of the remaining needed furniture and equipment.

"So far, purchase of $6,000 worth of furniture and equipment has been authorized. $15,000 is the minimum needed for this purpose. This figure has been successfully whittled down from $20,000 to $18,000 and now to $15,000.

"THERE IS every reason to believe Orindans will be very happy with this new community asset which, considering the land value, and the extremely low cost at which this job is being done, should represent a total asset value to the community of somewhere around $150,000.

"We do not authorize any expenditure of money unless it is in hand. There are still several hundred families in Orinda who have not made any contribution to this project.

"New cash contributions to permit us to finish this job are needed now. All interested persons, including those who wish to make additional contributions should mail their checks to Orinda Library Building Fund, Box 254, Orinda.

"ORINDA LIBRARY Board is a non-profit corporation, incorporated under the laws of California for the purpose of creating a suitable public library in Orinda. The Orinda Library Building Fund is the arm of the Orinda Library Board, to raise the funds for this purpose.

Everyone connected with either or both of these two groups serves without pay, and donates his or her time, and money, too. Contributions are tax deductible. Those handling money are bonded. A complete, audited report of receipts and disbursements will be presented to the community as soon as possible after the project has been completed.

"Your contribution now will assist us in finishing the job promptly. Names of all contributors will be registered in a "Book of Remembrance" to be maintained in the library. A permanent plaque to honor sponsors (those who contributed $1,000 or more—in money or materials—or both) will be affixed to the building."

Contract Is Awarded to Gordon Ball Co.

Contract for the construction of the Orinda-Lafayette freeway link has been awarded to Gordon H. Ball and Ball & Simpson of Berkeley on their low bid of $3,662,946.50.

Announcement of the bid award was made by A. C. Birnie, senior state highway engineer.

Work on clearing the right-of-way is expected to get under way today, said Paul Pratt of Ball & Simpson, and will probably start at the Orinda end of the highway.

Most obstructions have already been removed under a previous contract, Pratt noted, and actual construction of the six-lane highway will probably begin within two or three weeks.

Work will probably be completed within 18 months, depending upon weather.

The freeway will be 2.1 miles long, extending from .7 mile east of Orinda road to .8 miles east of Sunnybrook Drive. Although to be constructed initially as a six-lane highway, provision will be made for two additional lanes in the future.

There will be interchanges at Charles Hill Road, and one at Acalanes Valley Road.

"Actual construction time depends almost entirely on the kind of weather we have this winter," Pratt said. "With good weather, we might be able to complete the job by next fall. Bad weather would mean we'd have to continue next winter."

At no time during construction, according to the State Division of Highways, will Lafayette and Orinda residents who now have access to Mt. Diablo Boulevard be cut off from it.

Supervisors Assure Association Full Hearing on Waste Disposal

The Pleasant Hill Improvement Association was assured that ample consideration would be given to the public before adoption of any waste disposal ordinance by the Contra Costa County Board of Supervisors Tuesday in Martinez.

In answer to a letter sent to the supervisors, by the governing body of the improvement association and written by Mrs. Ruth Dawkins, chairman of the waste disposal committee, the supervisors commented that public hearings would be called to permit all factions to be heard in the matter.

MRS. DAWKINS pointed out to the supervisors that inasmuch as there seems to have been a movement for the granting of exclusive franchises within the county, the public should be given the consideration of a careful study of the matter by the supervisors.

"Since the proposed ordinance dated June 16, and submitted to the Board of Supervisors June 24, seems to be more concerned with the protection of the operators and wishes of the health department administrators than with the convenience to, protection of, and economics for, the public, Pleasant Hill Improvement Association respectfully requests that before any ordinance is adopted for the regulation of waste disposal, or the licensing or franchising of any operator in the County, that a thorough study be made of all the economic factors involved," she said.

"FULL RECOGNITION of needs and convenience of the housewife should be made, an effort be made to take a step toward curbing the increasing spiral of living costs in Contra Costa County, and the advantages to the public which could come about by keeping the possibility of publicly-owned-disposal-service open be carefully weighed.

"Perhaps benefit might accrue to the public by allowing competition to be a possibility, or by taking the profit motive out of waste disposal completely by making it a function of government.

"Perhaps public control of the dumps would help to protect the public interests. Certainly no license or franchise should be issued without full protection of the public interest, Mrs. Dawkins urged.

MRS. DAWKINS reminded the supervisors that earlier the Pleasant Hill Improvement Association had been informed by them that "the County of Contra Costa does not regulate, and no company has an exclusive right to collect garbage in any area and any person is free to enter the garbage business in any area he see fit to do so."

The supervisors were informed that when garbage rate increases were asked by the operators of garbage companies, the supervisors would not take any steps to determine whether the increases were justified.

"A representative of the Valley Disposal Service, Inc., which services our area, spoke at one of our meetings relative to the raise of 50 percent in the monthly rate for weekly pick-up service. He said the raise was made in anticipation of the expected cost of a future requirement of disposing of waste by cover and fill method in connection with anti-smog regulations. (The $1 rate was raised to $1.50)," Mrs. Dawkins commented.

"SHORTLY, WE heard that the waste disposal companies had organized and were making agreements among themselves as to the distribution between themselves of areas of service," she claimed.

"This spring it was brought to our attention that 'Contra Costa County garbagemen are composting garbage—papers, tin cans and all—into richly productive top soil.'

"It is our understanding that the process was developed at the Pittsburg Disposal Service Co. dump south of Pittsburg and has been underwritten and patented by 17 owners of disposal services in the county.

"Pete Bertoglio, president of The Western Disposal Operators Association, and operator of the Pittsburg Disposal Co., converted an acre of his Pittsburg dump into a giant compost heap. The pile is showered with water daily, mixed and aerated 20 times in 90 days, the length of time needed to complete the composting process.

"PART OF THE END product is screened and placed on top of the refuse pile to hold in the heat generated by the organic materials as they decompose, and that the temperature, as reported reaches 170 to 200 degrees a foot under the surface and that that is hot enough to kill flies and germs and keep away rats.

"At the end of the composting process, the finished compost heap is only one-fifth the volume of the original garbage, the cans have oxidized into flakes of mineral, the bottles have been broken and screened to a point where the glass becomes sand, and the organic materials have become pure plant soil.

"No chemicals are added so long as the moisture level is maintained, virtually everything decomposing, except plastics, which are separated during screening. That the compost itself feels like heavy peat moss, is dark brown in color, and except for a faint smell of cinnamon, odorless.

"It has been estimated that the cost to the operators for this processing will not be appreciably more than the cost of cover-and-fill methods, and that this type of processing will multiply the useful life of garbage dumps by five years (or possibly more if the composted material is sold back to the public, as has been suggested) and the dumps will have been developed by the processing into highly desirable plots of land," the supervisors were told.

"OTHER GARBAGE dumps in the county are now using or planning to use the process, and the process will be made available to operators everywhere, but we have had no information as to whether or not patenting operators will make a charge for the use of the process by other operators, or why the process was patented if there was no intention to charge for the use of the process," Mrs. Dawkins noted.

"The process would seem to be a definite step toward improvement of living conditions in Contra Costa County, and as such we are inclined to be enthusiastic about it. However, we believe that the various factors involved should be taken into consideration in any garbage control ordinance which may be adopted by the Board of Supervisors, and that the public, as well as the operators, should benefit," she said.

Worthington Is Named Transit District Manager

John R. Worthington, widely known throughout California as an authority on urban transportation, Wednesday was appointed the first general manager of the Alameda-Contra Costa Transit District.

Worthington, 57, was named to the $20,000 a year post by Transit District directors at a special meeting held at the Claremont Hotel in Berkeley.

His appointment will take effect immediately.

WORTHINGTON HAS served the Transit District as its transportation consultant since March of this year, assisting in the formation of a transit plan to improve and expand public transit in the two East Bay counties.

The new chief executive officer, with a background of nearly 40 years in the transportation industry, also has carried on a general transit and transportation consulting practice in Oakland, and has served for the past four years as manager of the California Bus Association.

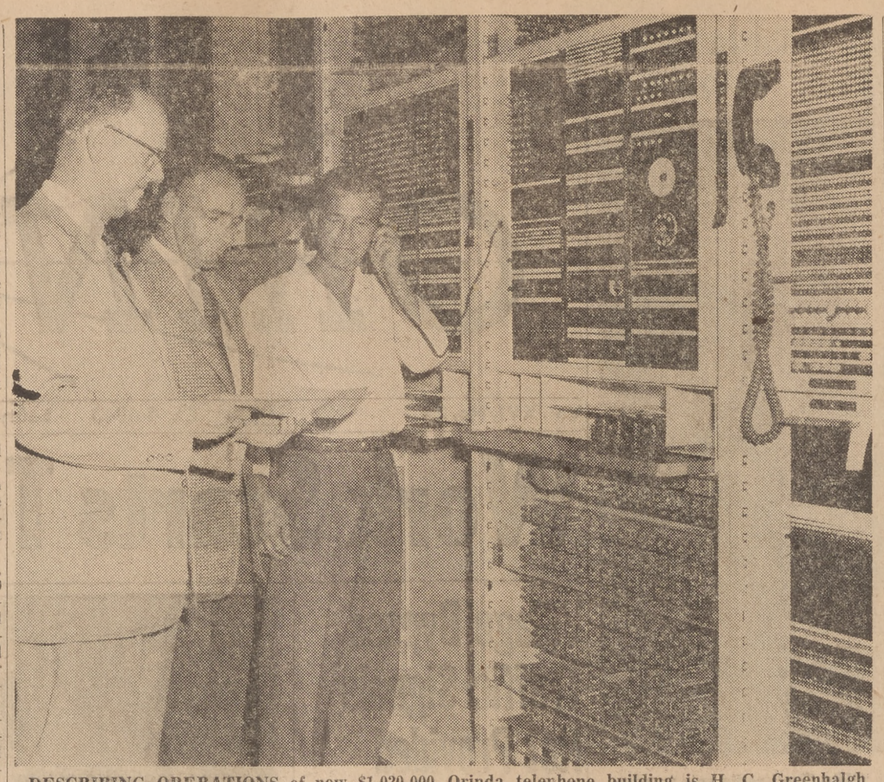

Vice President William J. Bettencourt, in announcing his committee's selection for the general manager, summed up Worthington's qualifications as follows:

"THE COMMITTEE sought a general manager with a successful background in the field of transportation and a man familiar with the complex transit problems of the Bay area in general and of the two East Bay counties in particular."

Bettencourt noted that Worthington "already has displayed and proven a highly competent ability" while serving the district as consultant.

"To delay any further the appointment of a general manager would shackle the district's programming and preclude an early activation of its transit operations," he said.

Worthington's appointment received a 6 to 1 vote of the board. Director J. Howard Arnold, who cast the dissenting vote, said the general manager should be primarily a transit planner rather than an expert on transit operations.

Judge OK's District Nay On Payment

Judge Wakefield Taylor, Contra Costa Superior Court, upheld the refusal of the Central Contra Costa Sanitary District Tuesday to pay for the relocation of its lines in Pleasant Hill.

Contra Costa County demanded that the sanitary district pay the bill in connection with the widening of the Harriet Drive bridge.

THE DECISION on the year-old hassle held that relocation costs should not be borne either by the sanitary district or the county taxpayers generally, "but by the people resident within the flood control zone benefited by the improvement."

The disagreement started in July 1957 when the Contra Costa Flood Control District undertook to enlarge and line Grayson Creek channel as part of the Zone 3-B Flood Prevention Program.

The action of the flood control district necessitated the relocation of Central Contra Costa Sanitary District lines and the reconstruction of a county bridge over the creek on Harriet.

JOHN A. NEJEDLY, counsel of the sanitary district, refused to accept the cost of relocating lines already in place.

The county, acting at the request of and on behalf of the flood control district, went ahead with contracts reconstructing the bridge and relocating the sanitary district lines on its own, it billed CCCSD for the $12,023.90 involved in relocating sewer lines and then sued to recover the costs.

Judge Taylor's opinion held that the "reconstruction of the county bridge was clearly not done for the purpose of improving the bridge or highway for public travel.

WHETHER THE Sanitary District holding is an easement or a franchise, it is a species of real property, he stated.

"Neither the flood control district nor the County Board of Supervisors acting on behalf of said District has any right to appropriate or interfere with property already dedicated to a public use without legal process and the payment of just compensation."

Oven-Like Heat Hits Residents

The mercury stick pushed the 100's this week, but the humidity contributed mainly to a discomfort which had Orindans taking cold showers, going swimming, trying hot and cold drinks alternately, and saying: "It's too darn hot."

New Science Building Plan OKed; College Tax Slashed

Trustees of the Contra Costa Junior College District adopted a budget which will reduce the tax rate of the district by 1.7 cents to 34.8 cents Monday night.

The budget will total $3,575,195.

AN INCREASE of 4½ per cent in the assessed valuation of the county makes the reduction possible despite an $160,000 increase in costs, Drummond J. McCunn, superintendent, said.

Trustees of the district accepted drawings and specifications for a $478,250 science building at the Pleasant Hill campus of Diablo Valley College.

Bids will not be called for, however, until the plans have been approved by various state departments.

PLANS FOR SITE grading were approved, but work will not get under way before December, McCunn commented.

Leonard Grote, Pleasant Hill, president of the College Faculty Association, appeared before the trustees to complain that the association had not been able to get time on the trustees' agenda.

Grote said the association planned to attend the July 21 meeting of the trustees, but that meeting was held seven hours ahead of schedule, and therefore the association members could not be present.

HE ADDED the association was not given word of the time change.

Trustees told Grote that he couldn't get on the agenda until September 22.

Grote commented that the association was not getting the cooperation it should from the board and district officials.

Salesman Tells of Molesting

A married 25-year-old freezer salesman was arraigned in Contra Costa Superior Court yesterday after confessing to molesting at least 12 girls, all under 14, in five Contra Costa communities, according to a sheriff's office report.

Ronald Palin, 3413 Geraldine Drive, Pleasant Hill, confessed to sheriff's detective Louis Skuce of the central county substation of posing as a brassiere fitter and coaxing young girls to enter his car, Skuce stated.

PALIN WAS apprehended Wednesday afternoon by Juvenile Matron Florence Drummond and Skuce at his home.

Skuce stated that Palin had been responsible for at least nine complaints issued in the sheriff's office over the past three months.

Skuce commented that Palin admitted to the molestation of girls in Pleasant Hill, Pacheco, Pinole, Walnut Creek and Lafayette.

Palin, in his confession, stated that he would approach the girls in his car and tell them he was a representative of Style Women's Clothes of Walnut Creek, a ficticious firm.

HE THEN WOULD tell the girls, Skuce reported, that he would fit them with their "first brassiere" or "better fitting one."

Palin said that he was successful in enticing approximately 50 percent of the girls approached, Skuce noted.

Skuce stated that Pelin would be charged with felonious child molestation, Skuce added there were no grounds for a statutory rape charge to be brought against Palin.

Palin was apprehended, Skuce said, when a mother spotted Palin's car while he was talking to a little girl Tuesday.

SHE REPORTED the license number to the sheriff's office. Skuce said that after interogation, Palin confessed to the charges. Palin was taken by Matron Drummond and sheriff's deputies to the district attorney's office late yesterday morning.

Judge Hugh Donovan arraigned him and ordered his case be studied by two psychiatrists and hearing on their findings was set for August 25.

Palin was released by the court without bail.

Today's gasoline has far more value. An accurate way to measure this value is by "ton-miles". . . the number of miles a gallon of gasoline will move a ton of car. Average performance in 1930 was 25 ton-miles per gallon. Today it's 43 — or 70% more work per gallon.

Can you think of any liquid that costs less than gasoline . . . except water?

Quart for quart, gallon for gallon, almost any liquid you buy costs more than gasoline . . . and gasoline performance today costs less than it did in 1930.

Fuel cost per ton-mile is down 18% since 1930. To move a ton of car a mile took ⅔¢ worth of fuel. Modern gasolines move today's heavier cars a ton-mile for about ½¢. When you remember you are buying performace, gasoline costs less today than in 1930.

In spite of higher operating costs in the oil industry, gasoline prices have been held down through research and intense competition. Since 1930 the price of gasoline (excluding taxes) rose only 23%. During the same period the general cost of living went up 70%.

The taxes on a tankful of gasoline would buy between four and five extra "tax-free" gallons. Combined state and federal taxes, which help pay for better roads, add about 9¢ to the price of every gallon . . . nearly 30% of your gasoline dollar buys no gasoline at all.

Old Car Goes On Display In Lobby Of Orinda Bank

How a good investment can grow in value will be shown graphically in the lobby of the Central Valley National Bank in Orinda next week.

On display will be the 1906 Maxwell owned by Harry Askham of Berkeley.

The automobile originally sold for $850. In perfect running order, it has brought its owner offers of over $5,000.

"Central Valley National Bank was 14 years old when this car was built," said William A. Polk, the firm's Orinda office manager. "They've both aged exceedingly well."

Polk gave the following facts and figures concerning the dream car of many years ago:

It has a 2 cylinder engine, two speeds forward, and a reverse band; bore and stroke are 4½x4, wheel base 72 inches, 127 cubic inch displacement, two cylinders, magneto, and foot-operated brake release.

Tires are 28-3, kerosene lamps are used for lighting, and the car weighs 1,000 pounds.

Tax Measures Are Opposed by State Realtors

The California Real Estate Association officially went on record opposing the Proposition 17 on the November ballot, the state sales use and income tax rates initiative measure, at a meeting of the Association's board of directors on Catalina Island, June 28, according to Allan E. Ingalls, president of the Contra Costa Real Estate Board.

Ingalls said that this measure would reduce the state sales tax rates from the present 3 per cent to 2 per cent effective January 1.

It also would increase high bracket and decrease low bracket rates of state personal income tax.

The rates now range from 1 per cent on incomes under $5000 to 6 per cent on incomes over $25,000. This proposal would freeze the rates at a new range of ½ per cent on incomes under $5000 to 46 per cent on incomes over $50,000, retroactive to incomes earned after December 31, 1957.

"If this tax system would have been in effect last year the state would have experienced a $36,000,000 deficit," said Ingalls.

He said that Realtors were largely responsible in 1935 for initiating the sales tax as a means of providing funds for state educational needs and to avoid excessive taxes on property.

"With the state treasury already clean of reserves, Realtors are concerned for the interests of property owners who would have to carry the burden of increased taxes if the sales and income tax rates are reduced," said Ingalls.

Large Section of County Seeks Transit Exclusion

Petitions seeking to withdraw portions of Contra Costa County from the Alameda-Contra Costa Transit District were filed with the District late Tuesday.

The petitions, containing 95 signatures, ask directors to exclude from the transit district approximately 50 square miles of northern county area including Contra Costa's heavy industrial section.

Robert K. Barber, president of the district, said a public hearing will be held following a minimum 30-day waiting period as required by law, though the exact date and location of the hearing have not been set. The decision on whether to exclude the area from the district rests with the transit district directors.

Barber said that in addition to hearing what residents of the area have to say to substantiate their request, the directors will want a report from district engineering consultants on what withdrawal would do to transit plans being drafted.

A proposed plan for improved and expanded transit in the two-county district is expected to be completed by district engineers late this month.

The petitions cover the John Swett Union High School District, Alhambra Union High School District, and the former Avon School District which now is a part of the Mt. Diablo Unified School District.

The area represents a total assessed valuation of $25,086,411, the petitions state.

Filed by Harry L. Morrison Jr., secretary-treasurer of the Contra Costa Transit Council, the petitions contend that propetry owners in the area are not benefiting from being in the district, nor will they receive any benefit when the transit district gets into actual operation.

To qualify for a hearing, the petitions must contain the signatures of property owners representing at least 51 percent of the assessed value of the lands and improvements in the areas seeking to withdraw.

DeCosta Named Leading Engineer of East Bay MUD

The appointment of Joseph D. DeCosta of Orinda as Chief Engineer of the East Bay Municipal Utility District was announced today by Louis J. Breuner, EBMUD President.

DeCosta will succeed R. C. Kennedy, who has resigned to enter the engineering consultant field, Breuner said. Kennedy's first client will be the Utility District, Breuner noted, the EBMUD Board having authorized his retention as a consultant for the balance of this year.

Donald G. Larkin, EBMUD Supervising Sanitary Engineer, has been appointed to fill the spot vacated by DeCosta as Manager of the Water Production and Distribution Division, Breuner announced.

His first assignment with the water company was as a construction inspector in the construction of Upper San Leandro dam and appurtenances.

In 1927 DeCosta was appointed East Bay Water Company's supervising sanitary engineer. He continued in this capacity when the system was taken over by the East Bay Municipal Utility District in December, 1928.

In 1934 he was appointed Manager of the EBMUD Water Distribution Division.

Go To Church Sunday

Christian Science

The true nature of God as infinite Spirit will be set forth at Christian Science services this Sunday.

The Christian Science Churches in this area are located at 22 Orinda Highway, Orinda; 1347 Locust Street, Walnut Creek; and in Concord at the corner of Grant and Park Street. Christian Science Society of Pleasant Hill holds its services at the Hillcrest Congregational Church on Gregory Lane.

Keynoting the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Spirit" is the Golden Text from Zechariah: "Not by might, nor by power, but by my spirit, saith the Lord of hosts" (4:6).

Selections from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include the following (200:4): "Moses advanced a nation to the worship of God in Spirit instead of matter, and illustrated the grand human capacities of being bestowed by immortal Mind."

The vital importance of understanding God is also emphasized in Bible passages to be read, including this one (John 4:24): "God is a Spirit: and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth."

Lutheran

"Deserter or Disciple?" will be the sermon theme of the Rev. Merle O. Tollefson, pastor of Our Savior's Lutheran Church, 1035 Carol Lane, Lafayette, this Sunday. Services begin at 8:15 and 9:30 a.m., and nursery care is available for children under the age of three years during the 9:30 a.m. service.

A group from St. Stephen's will attend the Evensing Service at Grace Cathedral on August 17 at 4 p.m., at which the Rev. Bryan Green will preach. Mr. Green is the great Anglican evangelist and author who wrote "Being and Believing", the notable treatise on faith.

Death Takes Erwin Lytle

Requiem high mass was said Wednesday at St. Perpetua's Church for Erwin T. (Mike) Lytle, 69, who died Sunday at his home, 3628 Chestnut Street, Lafayette.

He is survived by his wife, Borgel; a daughter, Mrs. Margaret Gardiner, Orinda; two sisters, Mrs. Henley Butler of Butte, Mont., and Mrs. Elizabeth Hill of Minneapolis, Minn., and four grandchildren.

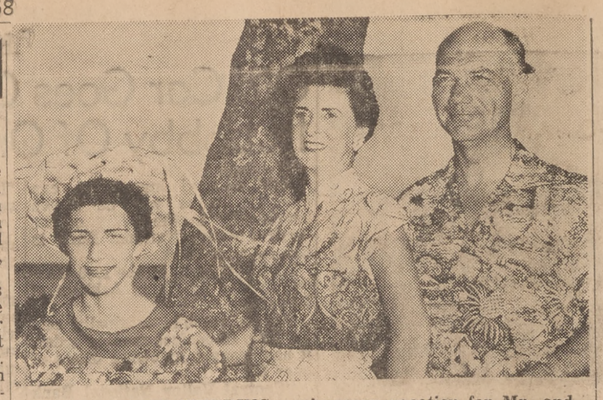

A native of Minneapolis, Mr. Lytle made his home there until moving to Lafayette five years ago. He was a member of the Elks Lodge, the Railway Workers union, and Veterans of Foreign Wars. Rosary services were held Tuesday at the Chapel in the Valley. Interment was in Golden Gate National Cemetery at San Bruno.

Students Enroll At Riverside

Two Lafayette students have been admitted to the University of California's new College of Letters and Science at Riverside

They are Jeffrey Merril Babcock, 3790 Happy Valley Road, and Stephen Scothorne Pickering of 848 Santa Maria Way.

Babcock will enroll this September in the Physical Sciences division and Pickering in the Social Sciences division.

IT WAS A 15TH WEDDING anniversary vacation for Mr. and Mrs. Raymond F. Ouer of 1046 Sunnybrook Drive, Lafayette. With them was their daughter, Monarae, 14, who enjoyed the beach facilities of the Halekulani Hotel on Waikiki Beach where they stopped. Monarae also learned to hula and play the ukelele, having taken her first lessons en route to Honolulu aboard the Lurline which arrived in Honolulu July 5. After visiting the neighbor island of Kauai, the Ouers departed for the mainland via United Airlines. Also visiting in the Islands from Orinda were the John J. Reillys Jr. with their three children and the Charles E. Coburns and their two children. —Halekulani photo

Battling 'Em Out

Spurred on by two near wins in their last outings, the Chapel of the Flowers tied Berkeley Farms in a five to five Senior League contest this past week.

The Chapel team, which has not gotten into the win column these past two months is serving notice that they are going to catch someone before the league is over.

Jerry Custard, who has found himself cast into the role of pitcher for the Chapel nine, is just now starting to shape up, and allowed only three hits to the league leading Berkeley team. In addition to his good throwing, Custard got two hits and led his team with seven assists. All in all he had a great night.

In the Major League this past week, La Fiesta Meats continues to lead the league. Leo Calestini has done wonderful job in coaching the Meats Club, as has Harry Ebding, his assistant.

Supervisors Deserve Our Plaudits for Tax Work

It looks as if we will be paying higher county taxes this coming year.

The tentative budget, which is now in the hands of County Administrator Desmond Teeter, is $2½ million above that of last year.

In spite of cuts by the administrative heads and the board of supervisors, we are faced with a 12 cent tax increase. This will mean an increase of about $6 in the tax bill of the average homeowner.

We wish to commend the board of supervisors for working diligently and hard in an effort to keep the tax rate at its existing level.

It certainly appears as if they did everything in their power to hold the line, and for this they deserve the thanks of each of us.

Many times in the past The Sun has criticized individual members of the board, and the board as a whole, and probably we will do so in the future if we feel the need is there,

BUT THERE IS also a time for compliments, and this is unreservedly one of those.

The board has been thinking about this matter for some time. It refused to grant salary increases to county workers in spite of the pressures brought by the county employees association.

The members reviewed the budget carefully when it was brought to them and cut every possible cent they could from it.

Again, we commend the supervisors for this action. It represents good government and careful thought on the part of the board.

It is doubtful that the board could do anything more than has been done. We are now faced with the inevitable for this year.

HOWEVER, IT IS time now to start planning for next. year. We can look ahead and see if there is anything that can be done to prevent a reoccurrence of this.

Certainly a real efficiency study would be the place to start. There must be places in the individual departments where savings could be instituted.

Perhaps such items as supplies and warehousing should be investigated. The use of time by county pool employees—that is stenographic pools, etc., might bear looking into.

A REAL EFFICIENCY study, started now, might result in a program that would permit us to hold the line next year, or even be favored with a tax reduction, and still be able to purchase the necessities.

Again, we wish to give credit to all those who tried their best to hold the budget down. Department heads come under this category, and certainly, the supervisors.

To them, credit is due and we take this opportunity to commend them for it.

Down, Boy, Down I Say!

By DICK OSBORN

This column is strictly for the dads in the area, so if you women readers (both of you) will just turn to the society pages, we'll get along with our work here.

Now, if you dads happen to have a young son or two around the house, I've got news for you. He'll grow up to be twice the man you are, and probably twice the man you remember yourself as being, which is something else again.

If you happen to have a young son 11 years or older, I've got a dandy suggestion for you.

NOW I CAN speak with complete assurance on the forthcoming topic. I don't happen to have a young son. I don't have a boy 11½ years old, either, but that provided me with not one bit of trouble.

I simply borrowed one.

You'll be surprised how easy this is to do. I just opened my mouth one day, and the next thing I knew I had a boy, all my own, for a whole week.

Of course, those of you who have a boy may understand this better than I do. You may be glad to get rid of him for a week or so to a friendly neighbor.

And before the phone starts ringing frantically, let me say right now that I don't need any more youngsters. I can borrow the same one again, if necessary.

But what I really wanted to tell you about is this.

WE WENT FISHING. We also carried our packs, on our backs, and hiked into the Desolation Valley Wilderness Area for a week of Man against Nature.

I would also like to state that Nature won. Hands down. She didn't lick my young companion, but she clobbered me right between the eyes.

Yes sir, you might be interested. Our conversation went something like this (before we started for the mountains, of course.)

DICK: Now Dean, you'll have a pack on your back, and you've got to take it easy, or the altitude will get you. You'll feel like heck!

DEAN: OK.

DICK: And don't be disappointed if we don't get any fish. That's one of the things you can learn from a trip to the mountains. Fish are smart. You can't hope to outwit them all the time, you know.

DEAN: OK.

AND HERE ARE a couple of quotes (the more printable ones) from the trip itself.

DICK: Sure was cold last night, wasn't it Dean. I darn near froze to death.

DEAN: I slept like a log. Where are we going today?

(And of course, I forgot to mention that the first lake which captured our fancy yielded one nice trout to Dean right off the bat . . . and with my rod, too! I had an excuse, of course, I was cooking dinner.)

And a little later in the afternoon . . .

DEAN: Mind if I go over and play in the snowbank for a while?

DICK: You go right ahead. Take your time. I think I'll just sack out for a while and take a nap. Wake me up when you get back.

AND SO IT WENT. I have found out that an 11½ year old boy and the mountains go together like pancakes and syrup. There's very little you can teach a boy, and he can teach you a heck of a lot, and in a very pleasant way.

So, fathers, if you are fortunate enough to have a youngster of camping age around the house, by all means take him with you. The opportunity is yours, and you don't want to look back at some later date and wish you had taken advantage of it while it was there.

One last thing. We finally got stormed out of the mountains, what with hail, lightning, and LOTS of water.

But you know something? There was never a complaint from the youngster. I would have like to complain, but what can you do with an example like that around?

And if anyone is interested, I'm conducting classes in deep knee-bends and setting up exercises.

Getting ready for next summer, you know.

Beware of Strangers!!

"HERE'S SOME CANDY if you get in the car little boy," said the man. The boy eyes the candy and wonders if mother and dad were wrong when they said some strangers like to hurt people, especially little boys and girls. Should he take a chance, he wonders. "YES" decisions have brought sorrow to many homes in the county. Keith Truxel of Pleasant Hill volunteered to pose for the photogranher. —Sun photo

Let's Go Baking Upside Down Kicks--Or Something

By JOYCE BARNUM

"I've been on a cake of baking upside down kicks," a friend of mine told me. Then she looked dismayed. "I mean—" and on the second time around she got it right.

I sympathized with her.

Recently my tongue got wrapped around and "steeless stained bowl" was the best that I could come up with for stainless steel bowl.

THE OTHER MORNING a houseguest was reading aloud to me bits of news from the morning paper. "I see where the queen has sinus trouble and the Poop has a totheache," she reported. We were both a little dazed, so early in the day, but her comments were more enlightening after she'd untwisted her tongue.

Psychologists have diverse explanations as to why our tongues slip into this free-wheeling habit on occasion. Which opinion is right, I really don't know. But I do know that these things happen quite often.

I've heard people say, "sturch cheeple", "she can't come to the 'phone, she's shaking a tower," and of a woman who does "dousework by the hay."

The speech of children can be delightfully different, too.

I was enchanted when the big-eyed young lady told me that her older brother had let her help him as he "bi-sected a crab." The enthusiastic young scientist also told me that someday her brother is going to get a "giddy-pig" for his Lab.

ANOTHER YOUNG one told of "temperance tests" that were being given to her and her peers. When I looked puzzled, she explained, "You know, why we act like we do and what our temperances are."

At that tender age! I could only assume that their temperaments proved to be temperant.

But my favorite of all came from the generous new citizen of our land as he congratulated a friend on a job promotion.

HE SHOOK his friend's hand with enthusiasm and vigor.

And he beamed as he said, "This is another feather in your head!"

Letters to The Editor

FLOOD DANGER

DEAR EDITOR:

Relative to the Flood Work Survey article in The Sun, I was astounded to read in it the implication that there is a possibility that nothing may be done to avert a flood next winter.

We bought our house in February and were flooded out in April after shipping a house-full of furniture from the East.

Ever since I was caught in my house in 20 inches of muddy creek water Easter week, I have anxiously watched your paper to see what the civic minded people of Contra Costa County were going to do about flood conditions.

We were total strangers and checked with many substantial citizens about the advisability of buying the property we finally decided upon.

Nothing in a monetary way could do what the flood did to our morale but we thought, "we are in a civilized world and surely those responsible would not let such a thing happen again". Well, I see by today's Sun that if an emergency program was followed by the County that they might be subject to liability suits if the program wasn't successful.

Do you mean that the County is actually considering letting this thing happen again? As you said in one of your articles, Contra Costa County is a beautiful County . . . but can it afford this kind of publicity??? Why should other districts which are not affected be able to vote down a special flood tax every time it comes up?? Why couldn't it be made a special tax for the areas so seriously involved??

If the people in Sherman Acres, Gregory Gardens, Pacheco, Pleasant Hill, and Walnut Creek (a great portion of Contra Costa County, by the way) are going to be flooded out again in 1959, shouldn't they be given some warning to abandon their property so they won't have to be evacuated by the Army again?

FRIEDA PORTER

LIFE SAVED

DEAR EDITOR:

May I use The Sun for a letter of thanks; and also for a bit of publicity for a too-little-known service in our community?

Early on the 29th my husband suffered a sudden and severe heart attack. I called the doctor who, as soon as he arrived, told me to call the Orinda Fire Department at once. The men were here in a few minutes, and with their apparatus, added to medical skill, they saved a life.

I want everyone to know what this prompt, efficient and kindly service can do; and to realize in time, that it is ours only for the asking.

ON DOGS

DEAR EDITOR:

Shame!! N. A. Brown, in this column, writes about the death of a dog hit by a car, and asks: Don't you think the owner was partly to blame?

What right does she HAVE to criticize dog lovers? There is no law that says we have to keep our pets out of the street, and they have every right to be there. If a dog is heroically guarding a small child playing in the street and is hit by a car, it's the driver's fault for not having complete control.

So they chase trucks and nip at the trash man? Course they do; if drivers would stay within the speed limit, the dogs wouldn't bother to bark after them. And as for the trash man, our dogs are instinctively guarding their homes against intrusion; we wouldn't have it any other way. Everyone needs a good watchdog.

So our pets jump on small children? Course they do; they're only playing. It's the children who must be taught that dogs are here to stay. There is no law that says we must keep them in our backyard. Besides, the messes they make should be spread over a whole neighborhood; one pet owner can't cope with them all, and they can be dropped unobtrusively over many yards.

So dogs tend to fight where children are playing? They're only imitating what they see around them in the human world. And when they run after a screaming child, whose fault is it? Why the Mother who didn't train her offspring to stop and control himself. Any dog will chase a bike or a running child; it's up to the parents to teach their children to stop and speak quietly to an excited animal.

N. A. Brown writes that a dog struck down by a car should be given attention. By all MEANS. It would be criminal to leave a pet writhing on the road when you've been responsible. Call the police and a good veterinarian for immediate help. After all, a child, heart-broken over the death of a beloved pet, may be scarred for life.

So let there be no more criticism. And as for the City Council passing a strict ordinance to make dog owners responsible for their pets, they won't. Confining our dogs would give them a complex; you wouldn't dream of tethering your "best FRIEND"! The answer is to train your neighbors to accept the obvious and conform, like everyone else.

Anne R. Willmer.

COMMUNITY SPIRIT

DEAR EDITOR:

A few children in Lafayette Valley Estates got together and held a neighborhood fair for the Community Center. We looked for old toys and sold them to children in our neighborhood for a few pennies, until we had enough money to buy things for our fair.

At the fair we had a cakewalk, a refreshment stand, a bean-bag throw, a horseshoe pitch and a fish pond. Mark Mohler helped us by crushing ice and making popcorn. His mother helped us by making cupcakes for the cake walk. We also sold Kool-Aid. We made $13.94. he fair was held at Barbara Welsh's house, 3293 Helen Lane.

We would sure be happy if a lot of other children would follow this example in other different ways and do something to get our Community Center going.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

DEAR EDITOR:

When I read your article in "The Sun" last week I clapped enthusiastically over your vivid description of a happy birthday party at home. But, I thought wistfully to myself, he sounds so self sufficient, he would never be interested in "The Childrens' Party Service."

This week's column from Marie Monahan gave me renewed hope. Does she realize, do you suppose, that for the additional cost of getting rug cleaned of peanut shells, peppermints, etc., that she could secure competent help? Do others in her boat, realize that practice develops intestinal fortitude in dealing with small boys at a party and that there are many fascinating party themes suited to their particular talents? How about help from me in doing a 49'er party with rock sets as favors and a chance to dig for buried gold, or a Magic party with each boy learning to operate and take home a magic trick?

Girls like something new and different too, although they are not usually as hard on the furniture when they do not get it.

Please give me a chance to help those interested brighten and shirten "The longest two hours ever endured" by printing this.

What Do You Know About Contra Costa?

By HERMAN SILVERMAN

How much to you know about Contra Costa County?

If you are like me, you perhaps do not know much about the county. Of course, we are aware it is a beautiful county, with wonderful people—a grand place to live. But what about its government, history, population, economy and background?

This week I studied a handsome, 16-page brochure published recently by the county government. This booklet tells the story of "Local Government in Contra Costa County," but also presents some additional background material. Excellent are its charts, pictures and text.

If you want a copy, write a card to the Contra Costa County Development Association, 838 Escobar Street, Martinez, or call them at Martinez 120. I called and they said they would be pleased to mail you one, while the supply lasts. They have a limited quantity.

This is your county . . .

Many of you readers, of course, will not have time to send for the brochure, so today I want to reprint a few paragraphs entitled: "This Is Contra Costa County." I think you'll enjoy it. Here it is:

Contra Costa was one of the original 27 counties established when California was admitted to the Union in 1849. Its Spanish name means "opposite shore" and was appropriate because the original boundaries of the county extended southward to take in most of the eastern shore of the Bay opposite San Francisco.

In 1853, however, much of that shore was lost to the county when the state legislature created Alameda County out of a large portion of Contra Costa County and a smaller part of Santa Clara County.

During its first half-century Contra Costa was predominantly agricultural, although there was coal mining in the hills north of Mount Diablo and the Port Costa area became the principal shipping point for grain from the Great Central Valley during the 80's and 90's.

Then came the trains

The turn of the century brought industry. In 1900 the Santa Fe railway selected Richmond as its western terminus, and the following year, Standard Oil established its oil refinery there. World War I quickened the pace of industrial growth throughout all of California and because Contra Costa is blessed with all of the requirements of industry, it shared heavily in the industrial development of the San Francisco Bay Area.

Industrial, business and residential growth within the county became almost explosive following Pearl Harbor. When World War II closed there was no let-up in this expansion. Nine counties have shared in the gigantic growth of the San Francisco Metropolitan Area and because of its strategic location and natural assets, Contra Costa County has been in the forefront of this growth.

The county's 70-mile waterfront is of tremendous importance. In 1956 out of 31 million tons of ocean shipping passing in and out of the Golden Gate, 21 million tons passed through the county's ports.

Wheels of industry

These ports are the site of major oil refineries, Northern California's largest steel mill, chemical plants, paper mills, food plants of diverse nature, and a growing roster of all types of industry, both light and heavy. On the land side, these industries are served by two transcontinental railways and a network of highways, state and national.

At the westerly end of the county is its largest city, Richmond, the location of dozens of industries and in 1953 the "All-American City" award winner. El Cerrito, its neighbor, was runner-up for this coveted award in 1954. Nearby is San Pablo, one of the county's newer incorporated areas.

They talk about us

The wide valley drained by Walnut and San Ramon Creeks extends through the heart of the county. Because of its charm and fog-free summers, it has become a large and expanding suburban residential area embracing the communities of Concord, Pleasant Hill, Walnut Creek, Lafayette, Orinda and Danville.

The rolling hills, extending the length of the county's southern boundary, turn north from the Berkeley Hills to reach the Carquinez Straits. Sheltered in these hills are quiet valleys, some under residential development, others still agricultural.

The eastern portion of the county beyond Pittsburg and Antioch continues as a highly productive agricultural area. It embraces a portion of the famous delta region of the great central valley. Along its attractive waterways extensive boating and fishing resorts are in course of development.

Because it stands alone, Mount Diablo dominates Contra Costa County. The Mount Diablo base and meridian survey of the Federal government was undertaken about 1853. This survey covered 136,000,000 acres of California, Nevada and Utah and resulted from the reports of General John C. Fremont. Subsequently Mount Diablo was established as the triangulation point in the west for the U. S. Coast Geodetic Survey.

On top of the world

From the top of this 3900-foot mountain is visible not only most of the 734 square miles of the county's attractive hills and valleys and waterways but a total of over 40,000 square miles of the earth's surface—more, perhaps, say some geographers, than is visible from any other spot on the globe.

The summit is included in the 2,000 acres which comprise Mt. Diablo State Park established by the state in 1931 with financial assistance from the county.

Among the county's residents have been many eminent men and women. Joseph Walker, the first trapper to cross the Sierras into California (in 1832) lived out his later years in the Ygnacio Valley and is buried at Martinez, the county seat. John Marsh, the first U. S. citizen to settle in the county, was highly influential in gaining admission of California to the Union. Marsh built his stone house (which still stands) not far from the present city of Brentwood on the bank of the creek named for him. His house, like Sutter's at Sacramento, was a stopping place for newly arrived gold-seekers.

On The Lighter Side

by INA BLIESNER • YE 4-3818

Happily, the weather was just what the "Tanagers" (of the Mt. Diablo Therapy Center) ordered for their party Saturday night. This affair was for members and their husbands only and was held at Virginia and Paul Stafford's lovely home in Sleepy Hollow.

This fun loving group gathered in a large court in the lower gardens where tables lined the dance floor. A caterer provided a delicious buffet supper. Lots of bamboo formed a background and with Japanese lanterns and torches glowing the atmosphere was impressively tropical. One of the evening's highlights was the celebration of Gene Cantrill's birthday.

Movies added to the merriment

Another highlight was the showing, by Frank Walker, of movies which had been taken at the big "Tanager" party at the Walker home last May. Many had no idea that he had been "rolling the film" so this came as quite a surprise.

Reportedly, they turned out beautifully and were a real treat for all.

Barbara and Albert Wayne, who have been (and still are) vacationing with their family at Echo Lake, made a quick trip down for the event. The popular Jim Seamans had to miss it for they and their children are "dude-ing it up" at some ranch. Fran Seaman is the "Tanager" president. Gen and Cecil Cantrill had just returned from a stay at the "Feather River Inn" where they golfed and swam to their heart's content.

One day they visited the "Wallace Alexander" Boy Scout camp where their son was "stationed" and, surprisingly, ran into two other Orinda couples doing same. They were Gladys and Nels Hamburg and Elsie and Al Harmon.

Lois and Owen Owens are home from a two week stay at Crystal Bay, Tahoe. While there they discovered that their home neighbors, Naomi and Bill Leonard and three children were in the same area—so, naturally, that called for several reunions.

More gatherings at Lake Tahoe

Tahoe bound, too, were Marge and Ernie Starkman who were guests of Edith and Boynton Kaiser at Echo Lake. Other guests were the Charles Camps, former Orindans, and Jack Putnam. Two excited teen-age girls were the Starkmans' daughters, Sue and Roz, for they experienced two "firsts." Number one was a flying trip to visit the L. P. Richardsons who formerly lived in Lafayette but are now in Los Angeles. After visiting their cousins the girls took their first train ride—the Coast Daylight. Destination—home.

Sunday lovely Adele Gorman became the bride of tall and handsome Glen Pence. Adele had designed her own gown and it was a knockout. A white starched lace over light pink satin with an empire satin sash who's bow in the back ended in long flowering streamers. A tiny pink circular head band held a short pink veil. How her eyes did sparkle through it.

Charming Zelda Gorman, Adele's mother, looked so gracious in a softly draped sea green chiffon with matching hat, slippers and so forth. Mrs. Pence was in a striking royal blue lace gown featuring a side drape of chiffon. Accessories matched, of course. The reception following the afternoon wedding was held in the beautiful Gorman gardens in Hidden Valley.

And more about vacations . . .

More about those lucky people enjoying mid-summer vacations. Just back from a week at Lake Tahoe are Peggy and Dan Arena. They headquartered at a lovely motel overlooking the lake at Kings Beach. Bobbie and George Burton are vacationing at the Trinity Lodge. Over the weekend they were visited by the Herb Phillips and Gene Arenas. Fishing was the main attraction besides enjoying the best of company.

Carol Hodges and Peggy Smith spent several days at the Smiths' summer cabin on the Russian River. Carol's daughter, Brenda, invited her chum, Diane Paulovic to join them, and Peggy's son, Russell, brought along "buddy" Dan Arena.

Pat and Vern Benmark and their two daughters, Melissa and Julie, have just returned from a month's traveling in the East. After visiting relatives in New Hampshire they drove on to Plant, Michigan, which is their "home town." On the return trip the Benmarks motored along the northern route coming into Salt Lake City and were most taken with the gorgeous scenery.

The Ray Lemkuhls, Ed Andersens and Ray Cassanis joined some friends from out of town at Sea Cliff, below Santa Cruz, last weekend. After spending a delightful Sunday at the beach they all returned to Walnut Creek for a barbecue at the home of Lynn and Larry Dini.

Staying home but being happily busy lately are the Carl Marinos. Little Lesley Carlene has brought much excitement into their home for she is just a little over a month old now. Greg and Kent are delighted with their new baby sister, not to mention how elated Joyce and Carl are.

Another couple thrilled as can be with a brand new baby girl are Doris and Charles Chapman. Lynn Ann is two weeks old and has two big brothers, Brian and Mark.

Off for Europe this trip

A bon voyage party was given recently for Lois Ackers, Dottie Duggan and Barbara Grant who will be sailing for Europe soon where they will be teaching G.I. families living in Germany. Preceding the dinner hour guests gathered around the pool at the Sequoia Apartments, home of Barbara Lohan. Jenny and Les Parry's home was the setting for a lovely dinner.

All of the above mentioned and other guests are members of the Oakland Ski Club and recently held a water ski carnival at Steamboat Slough which drew quite a crowd of spectators. A very talented group on the water as well as the snow.

A group of young people gathered for an evening of fun the other night at the Bill Coffey home in Pleasant Hill. With host Ken Coffey presiding, the five couples swam, played records, danced and (what else!) ate. Guests were Marilyn Graber, Marilee Cogins, Carol Lee, Cheryl Dinsmore, Barbara Berry, Tom Webb, Ron Webb, Dan O'Brien and Harold Ibson.

The Al McCann home in Sleepy Hollow was the setting for a recent Saturday evening outdoor party with many of their friends and neighbors in attendance. Dresden-like Virginia looked like a dream in a froth of powder blue organdy banded with a wide satin sash and tremendous back bow.

Some of the guests were the Harry Pecks, Ed Bergens, Bill Scatenas, Robert Boyles, Art Comerfords, Art Lundblads, Stu Loves, Frank Gillespies, Joe Downs, Bob Walkers and George Merriams. Many of them ended up for an impromptu late supper at Betty and "Champ" Bergen's home near by.

Friends of Dorothy and Art Lundblad are rejoicing with them over the quick recovery of their son, Kurt, following an automobile accident. He was slated to have been in the hospital for at least a week but was home in four days—and, 'though several pounds lighter, is definitely on the mend. Even took his finals at summer school and results were fine!

Just loafing around the pool

Spotted "lazy-ing" around the pool at Orinda Country Club last week were glamorous Jeri (Mrs. Andy) McGlynn and her two small fry—Kevin and Brian. Also the fabulous Abbes family, Laurie and Ernie with their six adorable girls.

The older ones are swimming like fish these days and are delighted with tennis lessons. Stunning Lucille Hamlin was there with two of her three lovely daughters. Ditto Jane Bartlett who lunched with her youngster, Mary, in the Pine Room. Popular Jim Sweet and his "followers" were making music (?) with bongo drums.

Others in the same age class were Bob Summers, Tom and Don White and, oh, so many more.

Wives of Engineers Plan On Convention Activities

Dreusike of Concord and Arnold Olitt, technical advisers.

Keener, Friday luncheon and fashion show; Theodore E. Newman of Lafayette, C. Russ Graff of Danville, Herman Yank, George A. Sedgwick and George R. Maurer, sports and games.

Mrs. Burr F. Randolph will represent the Femineers of San Francisco and officiate a the tea, as well as Mrs. J. A. Paquette and Mrs. Henry Degenkolb who will act as official hostesses.

THOSE HAPPY SMILES belong to Mr. and Mrs. Pete Donald Thompson, pictured following a wedding ceremony at Pacific School of Religion in Berkeley. She is the former Judith Gilmore Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph C. Hall of Orinda.

Fun for Wives Provided at Swimming Pool

"Many wives and mothers are having a half hour of relaxation, exercise and a great deal of fun in the adult swimming classes at Pleasant Hill Park pool," Mrs. Lee Noakes, registered nurse and long experienced in swimming instruction said.

"The girls are finding the relaxation and figure tone-up a happy surprise result, in addition to the enjoyment of learning new swimming skills," she added.

New classes will be registering Monday and Tuesday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the park on 147 Gregory Lane.

Instruction begins Wednesday and Thursday.

Dick Pollock, aquatic supervisor, added "The evening adult classes are tailor-made for the working wife or mother and father. The enthusiasm has been contagious as indicated by the number of mothers and fathers who have 'made a date to swim'."

Also during this registration period all children's classes will be registered from the non-swimmers to the expert advanced swimmer.

'Buy A Home--First' is Slogan of Area Realtors

Area Realtors will participate with thousands of others throughout the country in a "Buy a Home—First" campaign now being launched by the National Association of Real Estate Boards, Al Ingalls, president of the Contra Costa Real Estate Board, said this week.

The local board is one of 128 belonging to the National Association, the largest realty group in the nation.

The campaign is an intensive effort to tell the public of the value and importance of buying a home first, Ingalls said. Realtors across the nation will promote the slogan "Buy a Home—First" through special advertising in the various media, display posters, stickers for correspondence and windows, distribution of pamphlets, "open houses," and special programs.

"A HOME IS THE best buy on the market today," Ingalls declared.

"Real estate values generally, more than any others, hold their own whether it is the day of the declining dollar or the era of hard money. The current home market is probably more favorable to the buyer than in any time in recent history."

He observed that home ownership traditionally has been and will continue to be a sound long-range investment and an excellent hedge against sustained inflationary periods.

Making monthly payments on a home, he noted, is the easiest and surest form of savings for the average family.

"The long term nature of the home ownership, generally upwards of 20 years, dictates that home purchase should not be deferred because of short term economic uncertainties," Ingalls said.

"YOUNG COUPLES in particular, whose long range earning potential is bright or stable," he aded, "should not be unduly influenced by uncertainties they know or feel are temporary."

He said those who overemphasize the debt obligation of home ownership tend to overlook the fact that in the course of years, the home owner reduces the principal of the mortgage and gains considerable equity.

The fluidity of the existing home market usually makes this equity available as cash within a very short time, he noted.

"Next to food, providing for a family's future happiness and security through proper shelter is a man's foremost responsibility. There is no better way of doing this than making a down payment on a home which suits the individual's needs and budget.

Ingalls suggested that the safest and surest way for local citizens to get the best home buy for their money is to see members of the Contra Costa Real Estate Board, who are entitled to call themselves Realtors.

"They are ethically obligated to protect both the interests of the buyer and seller, and are subject to severe penalties if they do not," he said. "Because of their experience, intergrity, and knowledge of the market, Realtors are in the best position to be of service to the prospective home buyer."

Names of brokers who are Realtors may be obtained by calling the local board office, or by looking for the term after their name in their advertising, Ingalls said.

TB Association Picks Executive Director Tucker

George Wacker, president of the Contra Costa County Tuberculosis and Health Association, today announced the appointment of Mrs. Edythe Tucker as executive director of the Association.

Under the guidance of the Board of Directors, Mrs. Tucker will be responsible for the total program of work of the association.

Wacker said "We are extremely fortunate in obtaining the services of someone with Mrs. Tucker's extensive background in the health field—and particularly in the field of tuberculosis."

Mrs. Tucker was most recently a field representative for the California Tuberculosis and Health Association, a position she filled for almost three years.

As a Fellow of the American Public Health Association, she has been actively engaged in health education in California and Washington and has written many articles on school health.

The new executive director has long been an active board and committee member of several tuberculosis associations and other voluntary health agencies, including the Red Cross, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Crippled Children,, Community Chest and Mental Hygiene.

Fiesta Slated To Provide Scholarships

A Mexican fiesta will be held Sunday afternoon, August 24, in the Elks Club in Walnut Creek, with music, dancing, and an art exhibit as chief attractions.

The event, first of its kind to be held here, is sponsored by the Mexican Organization of the East Bay, said Bert Corona of Orinda, chairman of the public relations committee, and proceeds will go into a scholarship fund for students of Mexican descent.

Honorary hostess will be Miss Maria Luisa Carvajal of Walnut Creek, a candidate for the title of the Mexican Independence Day Fiesta to be observed September 14 in Oakland.

Music for the fiesta in Walnut Creek will be provided by Pepe Landeros, and there will be a one-man exhibition of art by Luis Gutierrez, sponsored by the Diablo Art Association. In addition, top entertainers will sing and dance.

"This gala Mexican fiesta is designed to promote a better understanding of our neighbors and their culture," said Gorona.

Assisting with publicity in Lafayette and Walnut Creek is Blanca Lujan.

County School Enrollments Are Rising

Contra Costa and the eight other Bay Area counties account for more than one-quarter of the public school population of California.

And, Contra Costa, Alameda and Santa Clara contribute more than half to the nine-county enrollment of 642,184.

The three counties total 376,324 students — in all grades through junior college — including 97,728 in Contra Costa.

County Superintendent B. O. Wilson said that the Contra Costa enrollment figure, as of March 31, is 6235 greater than in March 1956, a gain of 6.8 per cent.

In the same period Alameda County gained 5.3 per cent and Santa Clara County, 11.6 per cent. The state-wide gain was 7.2 per cent, up 194,962 students to 2,893,219.

Contra Costa's enrollment continues to be the seventh highest in the state, exceeded by those of Alameda and Santa Clara and four Southern California counties.

Although reduced nearly one-third from the record level of several years ago, the number of Contra Costa children on half-day session is still high, at 5668, commented Wilson.

With the addition of special unraded classes and adult education classes, the county's total enrollment was 110,577. Among the graded classes and adult education classes the high school level and 2,977, Junior College.

Ground Cover Helps Keep California Gardens Tidy

Like the lazy housekeeper of a thousand jokes, a gardener who tires of keeping his large garden tidy can take the easy way out—by sweeping it all under the carpet. Not a wool carpet. In this case, we mean a wonderful hide-all ground cover.

Members of the California Association of Nurserymen recently named eight ground covers as their favorites for carpeting the garden. All will take a bit of attention to watering and weeding until established, but once they take over you can sit back and relax.

Topping the list are three ivy favorites: For large areas, the large leaf Algerian Ivy or the slightly smaller English Ivy are both fast growers for quick fill-in; and the small leaf Hahn's Ivy is good in more confined quarters.

In the same class so far as covering depth goes is the creeping variety of St. Johnswort, known as Aaron's Beard. This rampant grower sprouts an incredible number of new shoots each Spring, each of which bears a cup-shaped yellow flower.

Another plant that covers in a hurry when once established is ornamental Wild Strawberry. Strawberry will cover to an eventual depth of about eight inches and bear delicate white flowers in Spring, red berries in Summer and Fall. Except for the Hybrid Ornamental Strawberry No. 25, the berries are seldom edible.

Three plants that hug the ground as well as cover it are Carpet Bugle, Creeping Thyme and Dichondra. Carpet Bugle makes a rich green mat when established and puts up spikes of blue flowers. White or pink flowered varieties are available.

Creeping Thyme is dense and flat and deliciously fragrant when crushed. Its small purple flowers bloom through Summer in the hottest locations. Dichondra takes time to establish, but is the best lawn substitute of the lot. It looks like a lawn, takes traffic like a lawn, but seldom needs a lawn's mowing.

Here are botanical names for plants mentioned above: Algerian Ivy (Hedera canariensis); English Ivy (H. helix); Hahn's Ivy (H. hahni); Aaron's Beard (Hypericum calycinum); Wild Strawberry (Fragaria chiloensis); Carpet Bugle (Ajuga reptans); Creeping Thyme (Thymus serpyllum); Dichondra (D. repens).

Opera Season Seats Available In San Francisco

The single ticket sale for the 1958 San Francisco Opera season will open August 18 at the Opera-Symphony box office at Sherman, Clay & Co., and all Bay Area agencies.

Although there has been an unusually heavy subscription and advance mail order sale, a number of choice seats are still available for most performances. The season has been lengthened to six weeks, over last year's five, and season subscriptions to all three series will still be available after the 13th.

Slated for this Fall is the American premiere of Carl Orff's "The Wise Maiden", as well as the American stage premiere of his "Carmina Burana" and Cherubini's "Medea". Verdi's "Don Carlo" will receive its first San Francisco Opera performances and the repertoire will include such standard favorites as "Il Trovatore", "The Bartered Bride", "La Forza del Destino", "Gianni Schicchi", "Elektra", "Tannhauser", "Manon", "Le Nozze di Figaro", "The Barber of Seville" and "Rigoletto".

"La Boheme" will be given in a new production in celebration of the centennial of Puccini's birth.

AN OPEN LETTER TO MOTHERS

Dear Mother:

Your child means just as much to you, I know, as my kiddies do to me; and children's happiness and safety is my business. The law says that Dad can't drive his car unless it is in good, safe running order. It takes just a moment of your time to see that Junior and Sally are just as safe on their bikes as you and Dad are in the family car.

During the month of August, before the kids go back to school, bring their bikes into our NEW PLEASANT HILL SHOP for a FREE checkup. If there are some adjustments to be made, don't deny life to your boy or girl just because you didn't know the bike wasn't in good order.

Then let's both talk Bike Safety to your children.

Aavan Cycle Supply

Sincerely,
Van

Real Estate Board Builds Modern, New Home

Years of Effort Behind New Building

A result of 12 years of thinking, discussing, planning and just plain effort is the Contra Costa County Real Estate Board's new $100,000 building, now standing proudly at 1343 Locust Street, Walnut Creek.

The Realtors' new headquarters didn't "just grow" like Topsy.

The construction of a building, designed for real estate men's needs and belonging to them alone, was first proposed in 1946 by Frank Marshall, who was a city official then, as he is now, since the April elections.

THE CHOSEN LOT was purchased for $22,500 in 1955 when Ben Hamlin was president. This was the first concrete move towards what then still seemed a dream to some of the Realtors, and the Realtors, under Board President Barney Gilbert, retained Aitken and Collins, Berkeley architects.

The contract was signed last year with Lathrop Construction Company of Beerkeley, and the loan was arranged with Crocker-Anglo Bank, which is managed by Howard Sehlin.

Arrangements were supervised by Jesse (Nick) Carter, the 1957 board president.

COST OF CONSTRUCTION was $77,384, and the cost of the lot and furnishings brought the total to $122,490.

James C. Hill Company of Berkeley provided the furnishings, and Bill Simpson, interior decorators of Lafayette, installed the draperies.

"This is the finest example of hand block drapery work in the entire area, commented Wayne Bailey, the board executive secretary.

The first floor is sound conditioned, and the entire building is air conditioned. The second floor will be used as an auditorium.

In 1956, plans were completed, and class room, seating some 300 persons. Extension courses will be taught there this Fall.

THE BUILDING also has the equivalent of a large printing plant. The Multiple Listing service includes some 450 copies of each listing. Text books on real estate are available at cost through the board, and members may use a well-stocked library.

There is plenty of room for supplies in the ample store room, and thousands of copies of the "Squawker" the board's official news letter, and other information necessary to keep the members up to date are kept there.

The interior waiting room is spacious, and offers a garden atmosphere.

Focus point of the entire building is the board room and library, with ultra modern lighting and what is considered the best and largest director's table for conferences in the county.

The open house Saturday will begin at 10 a.m. and last until 5 p.m.

Realtors Gala Open House Festivities are Tomorrow

A gala open house will be held tomorrow from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., for the new office building of the Contra Costa County Real Estate Board.

The new building is located at 1343 Locust Street, in downtown Walnut Creek.

It was recently completed at a cost of more than $100,000, and will serve as headquarters, conference and general meeting place for all board members.

Wayne Bailey, executive secretary of the board, said that invitations have been sent out, but added that everyone interested in real estate activities is welcome.

More than 12 years of planning has gone into the new building, which has ample facilities for all activities.

There is a general meeting room on the second floor. It is large enough to seat 300 persons. The directors' conference room on the first floor is designed for comfort and ease of discussion.

Realtors, i.e., the Ladies, Are Not Last, Nor Least!

Although organized primarily for social and business reasons, the Women's Division of the Contra Costa County Real Estate Board has set a strong pace in its lecture educational program, this year, board directors say.

In fact, the program has been interesting enough lately to attract the attendance of many male Realtors, they added.

Mrs. Mildred Tinker, Women's Division past president, is in charge of arranging programs this year, and has done a top-notch job.

THE WOMEN'S Division was organized 15 years ago with 15 members. There are now about 125 members.

The list of presidents runs from Pat Drew who was the first president, to Thelma Braly, who is rated as one of the best presidents that group has ever had.

Mrs. Braly's aides are Leonora Tiederman, vice president, and Vany Kneer.

Said Mrs. Braly, "A woman can talk to another woman trying to buy a house much better than a man, since women understand the livability of a home far better than men.

SHE CONTINUED, "Most men are interested in the yard, garage, workshop area and perhaps wheether the foundations or attic are infested with insects, but the woman is far more interested in kitchen space, floor plan, and so forth.

She said. "Women are involved in every type of real estate from homes to commercial and rental class. Any many are classified as subdividers and developers.

Mrs. Braly concluded, "What's the business like? Well, some days for a woman realtor, it's a quiet 9 to 5 routine, another day it's as long as 16 hours. Sometimes a home can be sold in 30 minutes, and sometimes a couple will look at 45 houses before they decide."

Realtors Offer Years of Experience and Service

The genuine respect directed towards real estate salesmen today is largely due to the efforts and programs of official bodies like the Contra Costa County Real Estate Board, which will open its new office building at 1343 Locust Street, Walnut Creek tomorrow.

There was a time when the average homebuyer, and seller too, had to pick and choose carefully among the various real estate men offering their services—for inevitably a few of them would be "fly by nights", who put profit above all else and preferred a quick deal, rather that the building of a solid business in one area.

This very fact led responsible real estate men to organize into responsible groups which undertook the task of excluding the "sharpies" from membership, of providing better training for their own people, and formulating and enforcing their own "Code of Ethics."

THE CONTRA COSTA COUNTY Realtors, like their counterparts elsewhere in the state and nation, can be credited with much of the orderly and logical development of their areas, and with the confidence and eagerness with which people settle here.

Without the realtors, development would be slower, and in the long run, less extensive.

People who come to central Contra Costa today need only talk to their predecessors, who discovered that their realtor salesmen offered fine homes at fair prices, and solutions for financing unsurpassed in their fairness and reasonableness.

The realtor salesmen were carefully trained to offer arrangements which were appropriate to the intentions and ability of the individual families who came to them.

AND THERE WAS NO LONGER a fear or suspician that contact could not be made with the salesman later, or that adjustments would not be made. The identification of the salesman and his broker as "Realtors" made such fears unnecessary.

The Realtors also help the homeowner by observing carefully the development of the entire area, encouraging industry where it will not be obnoxious or too near residential development, but where it will aid in providing a strong tax basis.

Its representatives are constantly working to put idle land into use, for subdivisions or other development, increasing the variety and size of local commerce and services, thereby helping the local homeowner months and years after the original sale of his home has been completed.

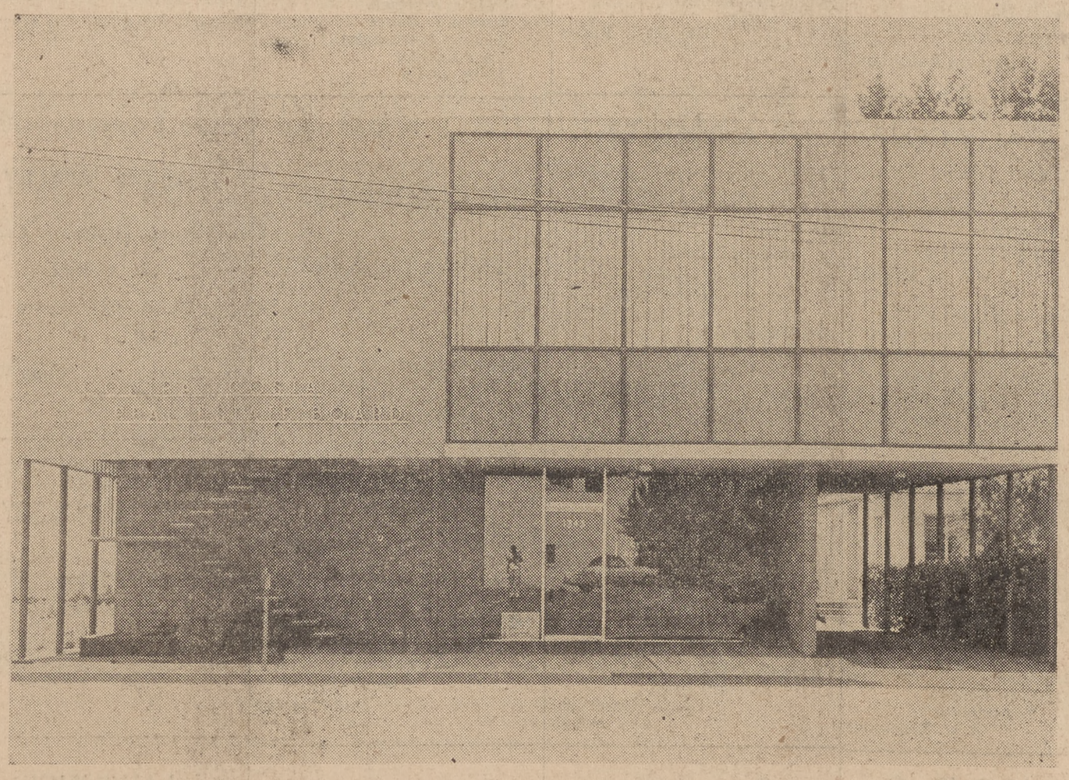

THE REALTORS, AND their Real Estate Board, are ready each day to provide the residents with information about their area, about possibilities when a growing family needs a larger home, or when mother and dad eventually find that, with children gone, a smaller house is better.

...ANOTHER STEP FORWARD!

FOR

The Contra Costa Real Estate Board

A NEW HOME... JUST COMPLETED
LOCATED AT 1343 LOCUST STREET IN WALNUT CREEK

The Contra Costa Real Estate Board's new building is the latest addition to Walnut Creek. It is modern in every detail and is located in the heart of the fastest growing area in the states.

Because of our strong faith in the future growth of this progressive community and because we, too, are progressive, we've built a new home! A house of service for real estate dealers and clients. You are invited to visit this new structure any time you are in Walnut Creek. We'll be glad to show you around and explain exactly how the members of the Real Estate Board serve the Community.

What is a REALTORS Are Active Members of Constituent Boards Realtor?

The term Realtor has come to connote competence, fair dealing and high integrity resulting from adherence to a lofty ideal of moral conduct in business relations. No inducement of profit and no instructions from clients ever can justify departure from this ideal, or from the injunctions of the Code of Ethics, National Association of Real Estate Boards.

MLS Sales in July Exceed $2 Millions!

Last month was the biggest month in the history of Contra Costa County Real Estate Board's multiple listing service.

The Realtors sold $2,150,810 worth of homes and real property during the 30-day period.

The second biggest month in MLS history was July, 1956, when $2,018,385 was sold. The third best month also was a July. That "magic month" last year accounted for $1,731,095 in sales.

Realtors to Open Branch Offices

Marshall and McKinley, Walnut Creek realtors, have announced that they will open a Clayton Valley branch office today.

The branch office will be located at 4616 Clayton Road.

Another new branch office is planned by Bailey and Ingalls. It will be at 1624 Contra Costa Highway, under the direction of Benny Anderson.

WORKING HAND AND HAND with members of the Contra Costa Real Estate Board are many title company and escrow firm personnel. Here, the staff of the Western Title and Guaranty Company (formerly Contra Costa Title Company) takes a few moments out for The Sun. Louis La Brie, manager, confers with Jo Pratt, seated, while Alma Brown, Rae Cook, Norma Speck, Peggy Driver, Mary Caldera, Cleo Smith and Lydia Pro messi look on.

Applications Are Being Taken For Vets Home

Wartime veterans who have resided in California for at least 10 years may be admitted as domiciliary patients almost immediately Veterans Service Officer W. R. Smaker reported today.

Legally eligible veterans who are suffering from a disability, disease or defect which will incapacitate them from earning a living for a prospective period, thereby indicating a need for domiciliary care, can be considered for immediate admission to the Veterans Home.

Such is not the case, Smaker said for those veterans desiring admission to the Veterans Home as a hospital or intermediate (long term care) type of patient.

At the present time there is a waiting list for men in both of these categories with 110 on the hospital waiting list and 160 awaiting admission for intermediate care.

The waiting list include four veterans from Contra Costa County for hospital care and four veterans for intermediate care.

Title Insurance Plays Key Role in Real Estate Acts

The title insurance industry offers its heartiest congratulations to the Contra Costa County Real Estate Board on the completion of its beautiful new home, according to Louis LaBrie, manager of the Western Title Insurance and Guaranty Company, formerly Contra Costa County Title Company.

"The title insurance companies work very closely with the Realtors in many phases of their chosen profession," LaBrie stated.

The most generally known function of the Title Insurance company is that of insuring the ownership of property. Leading up to that point, however, necessitates the talents of many people and many hours of complicated paper work, LaBrie continued.

In working with the Realtors and their clients, the title companies act in the capacity of a "disinterested third party." In other words, monies and papers are deposited with the title company in "escrow."

By the depositing of these monies and papers, their delivery can not be made without the written consent of the interested parties.

If the parties to a transaction are not in complete accord, the escrow cannot be closed.

This procedure of depositing instructions and money in the title company thus gives all parties to a transaction complete protection of their interests, LaBrie noted.

It must be said that the title companies rely on the Realtors tremendously in the daily operation of their business said LaBrie.

Your realtor is aware of the popular, but erroneous belief held by people yho are unfamiliar with real estate transactions that a deed alone is sufficient assurance that they are the owners of a particular property, LaBrie said.

The realtor will usually recommend that a prospective purchaser procure a report on the condition of the title to the property and that a policy of title insurance be purchased against matters not shown in that report.

The title company, which issues the report and title insurance, assembles, maintains, examines and interprets innumerable official records, laws and court decisions about property and peoole which affect the ownership of the land.

To the files and records of the title company are daily added new information from the city, county and state officers which pertain to real property.

Its indexes cover every parcel of land located in Contra Costa County and data concerning those parcels from the days of the early California ranchos.

Secretary Wayne Bailey Is 'National Authority'

Wayne Bailey, executive secretary of the Contra Costa County Real Estate Board since 1954, is not only considered one of the best in his field in Northern California, but he is nationally known as a lecturer and authority on real estate education.

Last May, he attended the annual Seminar of the Real Estate Boards' Secretaries Council held in Chicago, and was a featured speaker on the methods of establishing educational programs by real estate boards.

This was his second year on the faculty of the one-week session, and the third year he has attended.

THE YEAR BEFORE, he was a featured speaker, with the topic, "Multiple Listing Service."

Only two weeks ago, Bailey spoke before the members of the Menlo Park-Atherton Board of Realtors on professionalizing real estate activities, and last year he was the featured speaker at the annual banquet of the Covina Valley Real Estate Board in Southern California.

Many area service clubs have heard Bailey talk about his favorite subject, and also many students.

For four years, he has taught students attending the University of California extension course on "Real Estate Practice," which is a course which qualifies the graduate for a coveted "Real Estate Certificate."

AL INGALLS, board president, and a select few in this area, hold such a certificate.

Bailey has also taught for the East Contra Costa Junior College, and has authorized many articles for magazines, including the official magazine of the National Association of Homebuilders.

He is also a solid citizen. He and his wife, Betty live in Danville with their four daughters. The couple met when Wayne was a college freshman and she was still in high school.

But it was seven years later, when both had completed their college education and graduated, that they were married.

WAYNE IS A 1939 graduate of the University of Southern California, with a degree in business administration. Betty later graduated with a degree in English from Stanford University.

Bailey told The Sun: "Actually very few people have a really clear idea just how important real estate functions are everywhere, and how they move into financing of enterprises, and encouragement of new business."

He continued, "It's not only listing and selling land, homes and buildings. It involves financing for the individual, and also big companies and corporations. It involves developing of land, to the benefit of owners, neighbors and the general community.

"All major developments, the basis on which a city or area grows and thrives, are tied in closely with real estate transactions. How they are conducted determines how vigorous is the growth, and how far it will go, also."

"AS FOR OUR own board, its greatest strides in the last few years is the perfection of the Multiple Listing Service by which the people may offer their homes and get maximum service, and the realtors may keep informed of the current market."

"The result of this is a better individual experience for all local residents moving or locating here, and for the individual Realtor."

"And this has stimulated sales to the point that this month more than $2 million is being recorded, which is a marked increase over last year."

Wayne Bailey was born in Bakersfield, and attended Bakersfield College before going to work for the Bank of America there. He was a member of the track team in high school and college.

HE LATER attended UCLA, received his business administration degree. After that, he worked for Douglas Aircraft as a cost accountant, and later became a production manager for a wine company.

He went into the real estate business in San Jose, and was a salesman and sales manager for several years. He was a charter member of the Los Gatos-Saratoga Real Estate Board.

The idea of teaching the subject of real estate developed as a hobby in 1947, and he became an instructor at the adult education center in San Jose. His subjects also included business organization and public speaking.

His interests in teaching enlarged when he came to Contra Costa County in 1954.

'Code' of Realtors Assures Fair Play, Happy Owner

The "Realtor's Bible" is the code of ethics proclaimed by the National Association of Real Estate Boards. It is followed meticuously by board members—and where there is a doubt, the Real Estate Board goes into action.

Here are its provisions, which assure the public that fair dealing is the first consideration with central county Realtors:

Part I — Relationse to the Public

ARTICLE 1. The Realtor should keep himself informed as to movements affecting real estate in his community, state, and the nation, so that he may be able to contribute to public thinking on matters of taxation, legislation, land use, city planning, and other questions affecting propert yinterests.

ARTICLE 2.—It is the duty of the Realtor to be well informed on current market conditions in order to be in a position to advise his clients as to the fair market price.

ARTICLE 3. It is the duty of the Realtor to protect the public against fraud, misrepresentation or unethical practices in the real estate field.

He should endeavor to help stamp out or prevent arising in his community, any practices which could be damaging to the public or to the dignity and integrity of the real estate profession. If there be a board or commission in the state, charged with the dtuy of regulating the practices of brokers and salesmen, the Realtor should lend every help to such bory, cooperate with it, and report violations of proper practice.

THE CONTRA COSTA Real Estate Board's books are kept right up to date by Norma Peckham, bookkeeper. Careful recording of each transaction has led to the success of the board's operation.

QUIET RELAXATION is a keynote of motif which is carried on throughout the premises. Pete Vacca, a state director of the Realtors Board, catches up on some real estate facts before an appointment with Wayne Bailey, executive director.

A SIZABLE PRINTING PLANT is housed within the new Real Estate Board building. Getting ready to put The Squawker, real estate news letter, "to bed" are Shirley Brown and Betty Jo Bailey. Darlene Doolittle was on vacation when The Sun toured the Board's new facilities.

Realtors Trace History of Rancho Acalanes Lands

From the files and records of the Contra Costa Real Estate Board, and North American Title Company, The Sun learned many facets of early Central Contra Costa history.

Here is a brief summary of those facts and some dates of historical importance with sketches of early Contra Costa communities.

It is reported, though open to dispute, that in the Fall of 1841, 30 travel worn men and a young mother leading a tot by the hand, guided by the landmark Mount Diablo, were the first from the East to reach the County of Contra Costa by the overland route.

Closely subsequent to 1841 the community areas can be summarized as Lafayette, Martinez, Paacheco, Walnut Creek, Concord and Danville.

LAFAYETTE (which was named in 1852 by Benjamin Shreve, an itinerant school teacher) was practically non-existent until the construction of the "New Low Level Tunnel", after which it leaped into prominence as a very desirable residential area.

MARTINEZ, (the county seat since February 18, 1850) so named to perpetuate the name of Ignacio Martinez, the Commander of San Francisco Presidio, was planned by Col. William Smith in 1849 and later surveyed by Thomas A. Brown, the son of Elam Brown). Smith committed suicide after his dream for Martinez to equal San Francisco failed.

PACHECO, from 1857 to 1869 was the center of Contra Costa County's shipping and industry. It was once destroyed by fire, suffered many earthquakes and was eventually overcome by recurring floods. Today it is unbelievable that Pacheco was the shipping port, that it had the first bank, the first post office, the first newspaper and that Wells-Fargo put an office in the town, which then was the hub of traffic. The flood which occurred in 1862 filled the navigable stream with silt, never to be reopened to shipping. The stream is now but a creek.

WALNUT CREEK was founded in 1850. It became important as a crossroads and for years was known as "The Corners" formed by the road from Martinez to San Jose and the road to Stockton. It later was named Walnut Creek in lieu of the Spanish name of Arroyo de Las Nueces y Bolbones, which means Creek of the Walnuts and the Bolbone Indians.

CONCORD grew from the disasters which demolished Pacheco, and because of the benevolence of Don Salvio Pacheco, Fernando Pacheco and Franacisco Galindo. In 1869 they procured Louis Castro to survey the town of Todos Santos (Spanish for All Saints) and offered free to the distraught inhabitants of Pacheco plots for homes as an inducement to remain in the vicinity on the high ground in Concord, which was free from floods. An Indian in Todos Santos who was addicted to "fire water" was the cause of the town being nicknamed "Drunken Indian." The elite of the town were soon successful in replacing the nickname with the name of Concord, which is pronounced Con-cord and means "harmony."

All private ownerships of land in California are based upon Federal Treaty or Federal Statutes.

Title to California was vested in The King of Spain in 1769 by right of occupation. Strife between Spain and Mexico resulted in conflict and ultimately in an independent government for Mexico, assumed by the Junta of the Mexican Empire which on April 9, 1822 declared California to be a province of Mexico. The Junta was a very temporary group pending a true system of government. The Mexican National Government shortly succeeded the temporary government of the Junta and California then became known as The Department of California of Mexico.

THE UNITED STATES needed the entire west coast and so proceeded to wage war on Mexico. The Governor of Mexico, Guadalupe Hidalgo, admitted defeat with no delay, but would not sign a treaty regardless of consequences, unless the United States agreed to honor grants of land previously made by the King of Spain or by the Mexican National Government. The United States of America and Guadalupe Hidalgo entered into a treaty on February 2, 1848. Military operations thereupon ceased and the rights of individuals to land were determined. The treaty obligated the United States to honor the former land grants.

The Rancho Acalanes (being a portion thereof) lies within the County of Contra Costa, one of the original twenty-seven counties created in the State of California on February 18, 1850 by the First Legislature, before the State was admitted to the Union on September 9, 1850.

Candalario Valencia, grantee of the Rancho Acalanes, was a soldier in San Francisco from 1823 to 1833. At the end of his service on August 1, 1834, he received a Mexican Land Grant of Rancho Acalanes, as a reward for services, thru Jose Figueroa who was then governor of the Department of California of Mexico. The grant consisted of one square league, more or less, as was the custom to indefinitely designate the size of land in those days. Later, when the ranch was surveyed, it was found to contain 3,328.95 acres.

THE VALENCIA family moved to Rancho Acalanes in 1841 but soon afterwards traded the rancho to William Alexander Leidesdorff, a colorful character who helped to make San Francisco the commercial and financial center of the west. Mr. Leidesdorff was a native of the West Indes who settled in California when a boy, engaged in trade and acquired an immense fortune.

Elam Brown diligently sought a tract of land for his family home and for farming. Late in 1847 in San Francisco he heard that trader Leidesdorff had a ranch for sale in the vicinity he desired. Mr. Brown made the purchase and stocked his ranch with three hundred head of cattle. Pioneer Brown immediately occupied Rancho Acalanes and built a strong high corral to protect his cattle from lions and other predatory animals which were abundant.

The stock thrived without care on the bounteous lands of Contra Costa County.
County was originated by Elam Brown on the Acalanes land grant. He was the first to plant wheat in commercial quantities and the amazing result was the birth of the wheat industry in the county. An experiment with barley produced one hundred and five bushels per acre.

Not an American-built store, church, school or hotel, and no regular roads, bridges or ranch fences existed over the whole vast area of Contra Costa County when Brown commenced his farming operations. The wheat had to be milled at San Jose, but in 1849 the pioneer bought a horsepowered grist mill in Benicia, ferried it to Contra Costa County and placed it on the Acalanes Rancho. The mill was later converted into a steam-driven mill. This was Contra Costa's first mill.

IN 1851 THE UNITED States Congress appointed and conferred power upon the Board of Land Commissioners to hear and determine claims filed by persons who held Spanish or Mexican Land Grants as original owners or as owners by virtue of purchase or inheritance. The Board had original jurisdiction in claims, but rights on appeal from any finding was to be determined by the United States District Court.

In the event the Board or the Court on appeal, granted the claim, such grant was evidenced by a so-called Confirmatory Land Patent issued over the signature of the President of the United States.

On February 2, 1952, Elam Brown filed his claim to the "Rancho of Acalanes," sometimes referred to as "Los Acalanes."

He based his claim upon the Mexican Land Grant made by Don Jose Figueroa, Governor of the Department of California of Mexico. A decree of the Board of Land Commissioners awarded the land to Elam Brown on February 14, 1853, to the extent of one league long and three-fourths of a league wide, "being the same land described in the Mexican Grant and of which the possession was proved to have been long enjoyed."

Elam Brown had made his claim for one league square, and he appealed from the decree of the Board awarding one league long and three-fourths of a league November 26, 1956, approved the wide, but the District Court on decree rendered by the Board, which decree became final. (In Spanish and Mexican law, a league consisted of 5,000 varas, the vara being equivalent to 33⅓ English inches, making a league a little over 2.63 miles, and the square league equal to 4428 acres.)

This definition was approved as the meaning used in Texas land grants in the case of United States v. Perot, 98 U.S. 428, and was used in the computation of Rancho Acalanes.

PRESIDENT JAMES Buchanan signed, by authorized agents, a Confirmatory Land Patent, recorded at Book 7 of Deeds, at Page 2, confirming title in Elam Brown.

Elam Brown was content to keep the land here involved until November 22, 1882, which day he and Margaret Brown, his second wife, deeded to William J. Parkhurst for the sum of $12,000.00 an area of 320 acres (including the property in question). Margaret signed by mark for she was unable to write. The transaction required the buyer to pay $5,000.00 and give a mortgage to Elam Brown for $7,000.00. The mortgage was fully satisfied on the margin of the record in the Recorder's office on April 5, 1888.

Elam Brown died at his home in Rancho Acalanes, where the town of Lafayette now stands, on August 10, 1889, at the age of ninety-two years. Margaret Brown had passed away in 1884 at the age of eighty-nine. Elam Brown's daughter by his first marriage became the mother of the first white child born in Contra Costa County.

WILLIAM J. PARKHURST transferred title to his loving wife, Sarah J. Parkhurst, by a deed on February 20, 1885 and shortly thereafter passed away.

Sarah J. Parkhurst, a widow, on April 3, 1888 deeded the land to George A. Norton. George A. Norton granted the land to his wife, Marian J. Norton, by a deed recorded March 24, 1908, in Book 134 of Deeds at Page 302.

Marian J. Norton realized that the land would become more valuable as subdivided land, but in 1910 she did not know to what purpose the land would ultimately be put, so she subdivided it into large lots, the smallest of which was 4.20 acres and the largest of which was 21.22 acres.

The subdivision containing twenty lots was approved by the Board of Supervisors on January 31, 1910, and was recorded February 1, 1910. The sizes and locations obviously show the intent that the lots were to be farm or orchard lots.

It is hoped that the readers of this historical review, even though extremely concise, will find it to be of interest and of assistance in understanding the development of Central Contra Costa County, and the large part realtor members of the Contra Costa Real Estate Board have played in its development.

County Pro Football Tilt Tomorrow

Football season will be ushered in tomorrow night when the Contra Costa Riders collide with the Alameda Marine Reserves at Martinez in the county' first game under professional rules on the Alhambra High School turf.

Kickoff time is 8 p.m.

The same two teams met in last season's final game with the Contar Costans posting a one-touchdown victory at Acalanes High School.

Directed by Lou Coccimiglio, the 33-man Rider squad built around a nucleus of former junior college gridders. Most of the gridders have previous club ball experience, while four have played at four-year schools.

Gridders with experience at four-year schools are Bob Lee and Jim Fleming of College of the Pacific, Ed Hicks of San Jose State and Larry Courtney of Louisianna State.

Probable offensive starters are Ends George Moorhouse of Bella Vista, 190, and Charlie Jackson of Pittsburg, 180; Tackles Pete Bible of Lafayette, 200, and Larry Courtney of San Leandro, 250; Guards Bob Lee of Walnut Creek, 210, and George Fortado of Walnut Creek, 195; Center Bob Young of Oakland, 190; Quarterback TerryTaylor of Concord, 175; Halfback Frank Aiello of Pitsburg, 185; Fullback Ollie McClay of Pittsburg, 210, and Wingback L. C. Joyner of Pittsburg, 188.

Tentative defensive starters are Chuck Shipp of Concord, 180, and Skip Schultz of Concord, 185, at ends; Frank Gonzaga of Bella Vista, 250, Don Wilson of Oakland, 200, and Travis Berkeley of Pittsburg, 220, in the interior line; Al Tourville of Martinez, 225, and Manuel Jiminez and Joe Rozales of Pittsburg, each 180, at linebackers; Paul Egbert of Bella Vista, 210, and Gene Frowler of Concord, 180, at the wings, and Ed Hicks of Oakland, 180, at safety.

Part of the proceeds from the game will benefit the Martinez Boys' Club.

49er's Henke Turns Deer Hunter Gets Off First Shot and First Deer

Ed Henke, defensive end of the San Francisco 49ers got his sports seasons confused Saturday morning and turned deer hunter while working out on the Moraga Campus of St. Mary's College.

Big Ed took a 130 pound two pointed deer in the Moraga Foothills.

Henke not only took the first deer of the season in the Moraga area (the season opened Saturday) but also shot the first rifle.

It was estimated the two-pointer weighed 130 pounds, more than 30 pounds heavier than most of those killed around Moraga in recent years.

Henke, as great a hunter as he is a football player, spotted the buck through the fog shortly after sunup. As it galloped away, Henke let fly with a difficult off-the-hand shot from 200 yards and hit it in the leg.

While it temporarily escaped, he continued his tracking and finally brought it down in a clump of oak several hundred yards away.

Numerous other hunters were in the area, but the 49er veteran came in with the biggest prize, now cooling in the refrigerator at St. Mary's. His tramping after the deer and carting it back to camp cost him a lot of weight. Later in the morning, while checking in with other veteran plays, Henke weighed 226 pounds, nine under what he expected.

Henke has reported to training camp at St. Mary's for three years and has never failed to come in with at least one buck early in the season.

Purdy Gets 2nd Win; Baker First

BY JEAN McGUIRE

Santa Rosa's Hugh Purdy won his second main event in a row last Saturday night at Contra Costa Speedway.

This puts Purdy, who drives with a gentlemanly code of ethics, within one point of top standings in Bay Cities Racing Association.

WALLY BAKER now holds first place.

It's interesting to note the difference between these two leaders. Purdy has the reputation of never purposely dumping (hitting with the intention of spinning out) another car. While Baker has proved himself a continually aggressive driver.

In the first heat, Pacheco's Tim Kelly driving car 44 took fifth place. Kelly drove a fine race even though his car was not running up to snuff.

Cliff Bennett in car 25 took fifth place in the third heat, and Jack Clayton, number 88 of Pleasant Hill placed sixth in the fourth heat.

Clayton, who qualified sixth fastest with a time of 17.05 seconds, had a bit of bad luck during the main event.

HIS CAR sustained a broken axle as a result of a clash with number 28, The Purple People Eater.

Clayton continued the race however, winding up in 12th spot where he had started.

I imagine its pretty heartbreaking after a driver works his way to the front of the pack, to have an accident retire him to the back again.

DOE PAYNE, number 36 of Concord, was involved in one of the roughest accidents I've seen at the Pacheco oval.

During the main event Payne came out of the pit turn neck in neck with Gene Dudley, Leroy Geving and Wally Baker. They remained that way into the chute (straightaway) driving four abreast.

Naturally, there wasn't room for all, and Doe, who was one of the middle cars, was literally squeezed upwards and over their cars into the cement wall in front of the grandstand.

Payne was badly shaken up and suffered minor injuries.

NOW I'D LIKE to say a few words about a member of a pit crew. Nobody ever talks about pit crews, so let me be the first. After all, without these fellows, we wouldn't be enjoying the races at all. Phil Roberts is a pitman for the Bud's Auto Supply Special number 51.

Roberts gained recognition by driving 51 two weeks ago, when the regular driver Roy Barron could not appear, and a beautiful job of racing he did too.

Phil, who lives on Glenview Drive in Walnut Creek, has a car himself, but has confined his activities to keeping 51 running since his return from a two year hitch in the Navy.

Make a note not to miss tomorrow night's race. It should be a good show. The program carries two 25 lap main events promising a double dose of excitement.

Time Trials start at 7 with the first race at 8:30. There will be no increase in prices.

Destruction Derby on Tap Wednesday at Pacheco Oval

Bay Cities Racing Association stages a Destruction Derby at Contra Costa Speedway Wednesday.

The field is open to amateur drivers in any type passenger car and it is not necessary to hold membership in any racing association.

BCRA officials have set down the following rules:

Cars must have all-steel tops, all glass must be removed, all cars must be equipped with safety belts, drivers will wear the approved type racing helmet, no cars can be reinforced on the bumpers other than stock for that make car. As much chrome as possible should be removed and doors must be secured with a chain.

Ground rules will be explained to each participant on the night of the Derby.

No entrance fee is required but a charge of $2 will be assessed for a pit pass.

Applications and further information through Frank Blado, 145 Jackson Way, Pleasant Hill, Mulberry 2-6558, or Jack London, 4824 Telegraph, Oakland, OLympic 3-6881.

Sun Printers Land Rock Fish Haul at Half Moon

A quick check of fishing resorts and several good hunches paid off for Harold Harmon, Sam DeLoach, Jr., Bill Heath, Dale McMurren and Gene Bell early last Friday morning as they struck lingcod hot and heavy in Half Moon Bay.

The five men, all printers at The Sun, took advantage of Ray Gardner's fishing resort facilities at Princeton near the Pescadero Creek fishing grounds.

Heath took big fish honors with his 21 pounder. Harmon reported weather fair with huge schools of anchovies running.

Yellow tail were seen feeding. Herring, odd to be nabbed this time of year in the Half Moon Bay area, were picked off by many of the 25 fishers aboard Gardner's boat.

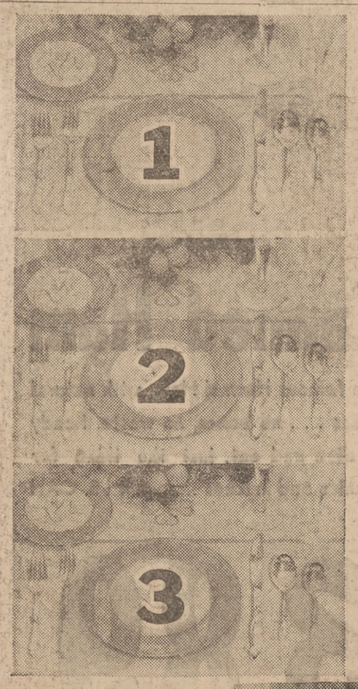

Rock fish were plentiful.

County Hospital Seeks New Chef

Contra Costa County announced today that the Civil Service Commission is currently accepting applications from men only for the position of Chef in the County Hospital. Salary is $433 to $519 per month.

This position is located in the central kitchen of the County Hospital in Martinez.

The kitchen is completely modern and was equipped just four years ago. It is an outstanding example of the last developments of institutional cooking, say administrators.

Applicants must have completed the twelfth grade and have had four years experience in cooking and preparing foods in a hospital or other large institution.

One year of this experience must have been in a supervisory capacity. Applicants need not be residents of the County.

Liberal employee benefits include three weeks paid vacation, sick leave, retirement plan and health plan. Applications should be made to Contra Costa County Civil Service Commission, Box 710, Martinez.

Republican Central Group Adds Members

Sam Conti of Concord, candidate for Assembly from the 10th District, today announced the appointment of three Contra Costans to the Republican State Central Committee for the 1958-1960 term.

Conti chose Sam Bradbard, Pleasant Hill attorney, and two active civic workers, Ardis Myhrs of Kensington and Mrs. Hal (Jean) Bates, of Lafayette.

Conti, an attorney in Pittsburg, noted that the trio share his interests in programs for youth and education, and economy in government.
